Impromptu V-for-Victory Symbol Answers Sinking ofTanker Off West Coast

Asiatic Fleet Hits Transport, Cargo Vessels

Washington Communique Reveals Sinkings of Enemy Sea Craft In Far East Now Total 24, Report Sub Menace On East Coast Unchanged.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Asiatic fleet has sunk three enemy transports and two large Japanese cargo vessels in the Far East. These sinkings, announced today by the navy, brought to a total of 24 the number of Japanese warships and non-combatant vessels sunk by the United States navy and marine forces. The navy communique, based on reports received up to 9 a. m., EST today, reported the submarine menace to the northeast coast of the United States "remains unchanged."

SINGAPORE—Rallying around a fresh force of battle-hungry and jungle-wise Australians, the British imperial defenders of Singapore appeared today to have checked the Japanese in their offensive toward this vital oriental base.

Two Japanese armored units were reported shattered by the stiffened defense all along a shortened front in lower Malaya, aided by considerable aerial support.

While the air force smashed at Japanese truck and railway concentrations near Tampin, 120 miles northwest of Singapore, British imperials fighting with fresh fury in the coastal strip north of the Malacca plain claimed to have knocked out 14 Japanese tanks and 10 armored vehicles. An official communique said advance guards of the Australians smashed six more tanks and inflicted heavy casualties in their first battle since the Malayan invasion began, in the eastern part of Negri Sembilan state.

(BBC, quoting a Reuters dispatch on the Malacca coastal strip engagement, said "an enemy armored column was allowed to advance over a bridge prepared for demolition. When the column passed over the bridge, it was blown up and the enemy engaged by artillery. Heavy casualties were inflicted on the Japanese and they ran for cover." The broadcast was heard in New York by CBS.)

The Australians' first fight occurred yesterday in eastern Negri Sembilan state, 120 miles north of Singapore, while the main body of the Australians, singing and eager for a fight, moved into battle positions on the main Malayan front.

Following up yesterday's success, the British command reported, a large force of planes attacked concentrations of Japanese transport and rolling stock on roads and railways in the Tampin area, 120 miles northwest of Singapore and west of yesterday's battle scene.

The command said the planes left several vehicles burning, damaged a number of railway trucks and inflicted casualties on the Japanese army.

(The scene of the air attack indicated the British were hitting just behind the Japanese front lines in preparation for a big battle in that sector just north of Johore state.)

The British also flew far to the rear of the Japanese spearhead rushing down western Malaya and sank a number of barges at Sungei Linggi, damaged several others, and attacked targets at Sungei Patani, northeast of Penang.

There was some contact with

BATTERING: Army Smashes At Taganrog, Tightens Big Trap

(By Associated Press)

Masses of Russian tanks were reported smashing today at the gates of German-held Taganrog, 40 miles west of Rostov-on-Don, as Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Red armies pressed a general counter-offensive through the Ukraine and tightened a trap on 100,000 Germans in the Crimea.

"The Soviet forces are now battering fiercely at the gates of Taganrog," a British radio broadcast said.

Russian troops were reported fighting the invaders a few miles from Sinferopol, the Crimean capital, 40 miles north og Sevastopol on the railroad to the Russian mainland.

The direction of the Soviet thrust against Sinferopol was not given—whether executed by troops driving westward across the peninsula from Kerch and Feodosiya; from beachheads at Yevpatoriya capital, 40 miles north of Sevastopol itself. In any case, the threat against the main north-south rail line at Sinferopol sharply endangered the Germans' chances of escaping.

On the basis of previous Soviet reports, the German forces at Taganrog had long since been isolated by Russian columns which by-passed the city in pursuit of the main Axis armies retreating along the Sea of Azov toward Mariupol.

Soviet front-line dispatches chronicled an unbroken series of

COSTLY: Tarakan Force Makes Japs Pay With Three Sinkings

(By United Press)

BATAVIA—Coastal guns of Tarakan island sank two Japanese destroyers and a landing sloop and anti-aircraft guns downed a Japanese seaplane before the little Dutch garrison, overwhelmed by an immensely stronger enemy force, gave up after a three-day stand, it was said officially today.

As the Japanese ships sank, the garrison destroyed every gun, every searchlight and every other weapon and piece of equipment they had, a communique of the Netherlands East Indies army said.

It was added that a ship, which was hit by a Dutch airplane bomb off Tarakan as reported in a communique Wednesday, was either a cruiser or a destroyer.

Belated news of the gallant stand of the Tarakan garrison reached here only today.

Reports reached here also that Netherlands forces were fighting stoutly against Japanese invasion forces in the Minahassa area of Celebes island.

The army communique announced that Japanese planes this morning raided the military and air force base at Medan, on the east coast of Sumatra across the Malacca strait from Malaya, and had again bombed the Amboina naval and air force base.

The communique said that in a raid on Amboina yesterday 26

Report of New Sub Assault on Tanker Off New York Unconfirmed; Norness Survivors Describe Torpedoing.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The navy confirmed today that a merchant vessel had been sunk yesterday off the south shore of Long Island. The vessel was an Allied merchant vessel of foreign registry, the navy said, officially corroborating the account of a submarine action given out yesterday by the coast guard at Quogue, Long Island.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Reports that an unidentified tanker was attacked 20 miles off Long Island yesterday remained unconfirmed today after a long but fruitless search for wreckage or survivors previously reported sighted.

Coast guard vessels and planes were on the alert for a stricken craft in nearby waters despite the absence of naval confirmation of the reported attack.

First word of a new enemy thrust less than 20 miles off the Long Island shore came from Quogue (L. I.) coast guard officials yesterday. Nevertheless, navy authorities in New York and Washington early today said they still had no information of such an attack.

The blanket of silence on whether there had been an attack similar to the torpedoing Wednesday of the Panamanian tanker Norness 60 miles southeast of Montauk Point came after Quogue coast guard officials reported that one of their patrol planes had sighted an unidentified tanker which had been attacked by enemy warcraft.

They also said the plane had dropped food and whisky to

SALE BRISK

350 Get Auto Use-Tax Stickers on First Day Here.

Mansfield motorists flocked to the Richland County Auto club and Mansfield postoffice yesterday to purchase a total of 350 stickers in the first 24 hours of the sale of auto use-tax stamps.

Neither Auto club nor postal officials anticipated a rush for stickers until toward the Feb. 1 deadline, although preparations are being made for just such a last minute rush.

Postal officials pointed out that since the law provides for the collection of the motor vehicle tax on the basis of the fiscal year, the use-tax is based on a sliding scale, allowing motorists to buy stamps at a decreasing rate in every month dating from the beginning of the fiscal year in July. Thus, you may buy a stamp in any month, valid for the remainder of the year.

Stamps now being sold at $2.09 are good until June 31, and the new issue good for the fiscal year starting July 1 will sell at $5.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—Argentina is under much pressure from sister nations advocating a rupture of diplomatic relations with the Axis powers, informed sources said today as the third consultative conference of foreign ministers of the 21 American republics settled down to work.

It was disclosed that the Cuban delegation had scheduled a conference today with the chief of the Argentine delegation, Dr. Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, at which the Cubans were expected to argue for severance of relations with the Axis.

Censor Bans All Quiz and Request Radio Programs

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Regulations to keep enemy spies from broadcasting military data to lurking submarines or secret stations over impromptu radio programs were issued today by the office of censorship.

A war-time code of radio practices laid down by Censorship Director Byron Price called on broadcasters to ban all quiz, man-in-the-street, request and other spot programs which might be used by Axis agents to communicate with their headquarters or with saboteurs through prearranged signals.

In addition, radio stations were told that because they were being heard abroad by Axis intelligence operatives, "certain material which may appear on the news service wires as approved for newspapers may not be appropriate for radio."

Price explained that while printed matter is censored at the national borders, "no such post-publication censorship is possible in radio." He announced that J. H. Ryan of Toledo, O., assistant director of censorship, would administer the radio code.

CHARGES OPM CURBS EMPIRE

Union Head Asserts Attitude of Some In Agency Hits Smaller Companies.

The Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company of Mansfield today was listed by the Steel Workers Organizing Committee as an illustration to support its contention that "little fellows" in the steel industry are discriminated against by some OPM men.

In a letter to OPM Materials Division Director William L. Batt, SWOC Regional Director Clinton S. Golden charged that some OPM men are utilizing their positions to protect their private interests during post-war adjustment by blocking expansion of some of the smaller steel plants of the country.

Golden asserted that a survey showed Empire's production could be stepped up 180,000 tons a year with a $900,000 expansion, that despite an OPM promise to do something about it following a survey in October, 1940, that "no action whatsoever has since been taken."

Officials of Empire local 169 of CIO were not available for comment today, but it was understood the union discussed the situation at length at a meeting last night.

Empire several days ago announced that due to shortage of materials it was closing three of

LID ON RENTS

Committee Writes Ceiling Into Price-Control Bill.

WASHINGTON— (AP) —A wartime ceiling on rents in defense areas was written into the price control bill today by a senate-house committee attempting to compromise between widely different measures approved by the two chambers.

The rent ceiling would apply to designated areas where "defense activities have resulted or threaten to result in an increase in rents for housing accommodations inconsistent with the purpose of this act."

The lawmakers explained that local and state authorities would be given first opportunity to put a lid on rents but that federal price officials would have power to step in if they thought necessary. Rents on or about last April 1 were designated as the standard for regulations.

NAVY SINKS 5 ENEMY SHIPS IN FAR EAST

Communique Reveals Three Transports, Two Cargo Vessels Are Sunk.

the Japanese on the eastern part of the front but the general situation remains unchanged, it was said.

The Japanese continued air raids on Singapore.

Japanese planes were over the island for several hours today and bombs were dropped on several areas. One preliminary report said at least one Japanese fighter was downed.

The ministry of information said the Japanese used 50 bombers, escorted by fighters, in yesterday's attack on Singapore. It said the British downed one plane, probably downed another and damaged three.

In the Philippine war theater, a Rome radio broadcast reported that the Japanese fleet was "in action" off the Batan peninsula, where Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces are making a heroic stand.

The broadcast said a night landing was carried out with success—presumably somewhere along the Batan coast in the rear of the American forces in the main battle line. No details were given.

A war department bulletin reported that Japanese shock troops "with special training" were attempting "aggressive infiltration" into Batan peninsula and that fighting of varying intensity continued all along the line.

The communique said Japanese attack planes and dive-bombers were striking incessantly against Gen. MacArthur's troops and artillery positions.

The description of Japanese troops as having "special training" was not amplified, but this might refer to parachute troops or forces experienced in coastal landing operations.

"Many reports reaching Gen. MacArthur's headquarters from the occupied areas indicate that the enemy is systematically looting and devastating the entire countryside," the war department said.

Meanwhile, Japanese bombers struck new blows against the dutch East Indies, attacking the big Amboina naval-air base near the eastern extremity of the far-flung Indies archipelago, and Medan military air base in Dutch Sumatra, across the narrow Malacca strait from Malaya.

Evidence that Singapore's aerial defenses had been strongly reinforced—possibly by allied United States and Dutch planes—was reflected in the British communique's report that large forces of aircraft were slashing at the invaders.

The Japanese have claimed their vanguards had thrust beyond Malacca port, only 90 miles north of Singapore on the east coast, after capturing Gembas and Tampin.

London military quarters said there was no confirmation of the Japanese claim that they had driven into Johore state, the last defense bulwark before Singapore, or that they had advanced into the Malacca straits settlement.

Without specifying the day, Japan's imperial headquarters reported destruction of 14 British planes in the fourth daylight air raid on Singapore. Seven were shot down and seven were destroyed on the ground in attacks upon military installations, it was said.

A correspondent on the Malayan front said the Australian movement was "the most stirring sight I've seen in Malaya . . . a tonic for the tired British troops."

The Australians heretofore had been represented only nominally by patrols of bush fighters behind the Japanese lines The first units arrived at Singapore last February.

Golden assured Batt that the S. W. O. C. considers Batt one of the "many unselfish and genuinely patriotic business men and management people who are conscientiously endeavoring to render our nation and its people a genuine service."

"There are some others in high places," Golden's letter continued, "who are not motivated by the same high ideals. There are some, we are convinced, who are utilizing their positions as dollar-a-year men, to so fortify and protect the private interests they have been connected with as to assure their survival under any circumstances, of the post war adjustment period which they visualize as similar to that following World war 1.'

Golden offered the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company of Mansfield as an illustration to support his contention that 'little fellows are being discriminated against'" Golden's letter stated:

"We have been checking up to see whether their (Empire) production facilities were being fully utilized. I am enclosing a copy of a report by one of our staff members. He is an old time mill man—a practical man who wants to help win the war. The report tells the story briefly and simply.

"Mansfield, Ohio, as a community with an old established steel producing company, is strategically located. It is close to sources of raw materials and to other localities where there are other industries which are consumers of steel products for war as well as civilian needs. It is almost 600 miles inland from the Atlantic coast and for the present, relatively safe against attacks by bombers.

"Under any rational system of utilizing productive capacity and facilities including the skills of splendid workmen and competent management and supervision, its possibilities would be instantly recognized both in peace and war times.

"Now just as I am writing this, word comes that Empire Steel has been obliged to shut down three of its six open hearth furnaces because they cannot operate within the framework of a price schedule based largely on the production costs of the big fellows with the last word in modern equipment.

"And to these fellows the government is shoveling out millions of dollars of public funds to provide them with still bigger and better facilities which will not be ready for production for another year. In the meantime, 15,000 tons monthly of ingot production is being lost and good skilled workmen are becoming increasingly idle."

When, on Wednesday, Hill announced the closing of three furnaces and probable furloughing of 300 employes by the end of the month, the Empire president said the shortage of raw material was responsible.

The report which accompanied Golden's letter to Batt gave a detailed description of the Empire plant facilities and asserted that following a survey by an OPM representative in October, 1940, assurance was given that proper steps would be taken to utilize the productive facilities of this company. However, no action whatsoever was or has since been taken, the report stated.

A definite plan for an increase of 180,000 tons per year in Empire's ingot capacity, at an expenditure of $900,000, has been available for the past eight months, according to the report.

REDS BATTER AT UKRAINE CITY

Soviet Army Tightens Trap on 100,000 Germans In Crimea Area.

Russian triumphs along the entire 1,200-mile battleline from Leningrad to the Black sea.

In the northeast Ukraine, Red army troops were reported heavily assaulting German forces at Kharkov, Russia's "Pittsburgh" of the Donets river industrial basin, after piercing the city's outer defenses at several points.

On the central front, the phrase "history repeats itself" took on gloomy new significance for the Germans as Red army spearheads, adopting Nazi encirclement tactics, threatened half a dogen "anchor points" on Adolf Hitler's winter defense line.

A war map showing the positions of Soviet vanguards revealed all too clearly to Hitler that his strongholds at Kursk, Orel, Bryansk, Roslavl, Vyazma and Rzhev—key cities on a 350-mile defense arc—were endangered by the Soviet counter-sweep.

Russian troops who had advanced 100 miles westward from Kalinin in a month recaptured the Volga river town of Selizharovo, 175 miles northwest of Moscow, out-flanking the Germans at Rzhev.

Rzhev, 50 miles down the Volga river from Selizharovo, was the northern defense bastion protecting the main German salient at Mozhaisk 57 miles west of Moscow.

Russian troops were reported to have opened a direct front assault on Mozhaisk yesterday, and London said heavy fighting raged there today.

German airmen raided the northeast coast of England late yesterday, but British officials described the damage as not extensive.

The Royal Air Force made another night attack on the German ports of Hamburg and Emden.

RAF fliers left big fires burning in both ports, while other British bombers pounded objectives in northwest Germany and airdromes in the low countries

Hitler's high command acknowledging the attacks said "there were dead and wounded among the civilian population"

On the North African front, Free French troops were reported today for their first land attack on the Germans since the armistice of Compiegne, supporting British imperial and Allied Legions battering away at Axis hold-out forces in Halfaya ("Hell-fire") pass.

The French were said to be fully equipped with tanks and armored cars, as were the De Gaullist troops who fought against the Italians, in Ethiopia and Eritrea to help wreck Premier Mussolini's Italian East Africa Empire last year.

Heavy artillery duels were reported as the British attempted to wipe out the Halfaya garrison, a force of 7,000 Germans and Italians.

Far to the west, mobile British columns were moving slowly forward along the gulf of Sirte coast, battling stiff resistance by rearguards covering the retreat of Gen. Erwin Rommel's Axis armies.

Premier Mussolini's high command said German and Italian planes inflicted heavy losses on the British at Halfaya pass, along the Egyptian-Libyan frontier, asserting that British columns on the march and massed motorized units had been "bombed and machine gunned and dispersed"

As Triplets Celebrated First Birthday

The first triplets born in Mansfield in 14 years climaxed their first birthday celebration yesterday by posing for The News-Journal camera. Children of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll J. Solomon, 431 Edgewood road, the trio, pictured from left to right are Sarah Lou, Carol Ann and William Jerome.

Solomon Babies Put In a Big Day on Their 1st Anniversary

Yesterday was an important day for Carol Ann, Sarah Lou and William Jerome Solomon, triplet daughters and son of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll J. Solomon, 431 Edgewood road.

The fair-haired, blue-eyed trio had their first taste of cake along with their cereal, chopped vegetables and egg yolk. The occasion was their first birthday and the event was marked by an anniversary cake bearing three lighted candles.

Just now learning to walk the triplets, the first set born in Mansfield in 14 years, are "very good babies," according to their mother who admits having her "hands full" in looking after them.

The youngsters are kept on a strict sleep and diet schedule with feeding time at their own little nursery table taking place promptly at 8 a. m., 11:30 a. m. and 5:30 p. m. At 6 p. m. they are put to bed in individual cribs, standing side by side, and from then on "seldom a peep is heard" until breakfast time.

Although the birthday schedule of the triplets was the same as any other day it did have several "added attractions" such as the birthday cake, bouquets of flowers and a visit by The News-Journal cameraman.

Born Jan. 15, 1941, at Mansfield General hospital the triplets each weighed four pounds and a few ounces.

Carol Ann, the first born, now tips the scales at 20 pounds, Sarah Lou, born second, weighs 15 pounds, and William Jerome, weighs 19 pounds. Sarah Lou is a little slower than her brother and sister in cutting teeth. She only has three while Carol Ann has seven and William Jerome, eight.

There is one other daughter in the Solomon family, Mary Margaret, who will be three years old April 15.

The father, Carroll J Solomon, is manager of the Weidner Motor Sales company here.

Japanese bombing planes, protected by 10 fighters, dropped many heavy bombs and damaged military buildings and other military targets.

The communique said that in a raid yesterday on Balik Papan, the east Borneo oil base, nine Japanese planes killed one civilian and wounded 10, seven of them seriously, but did only slight damage, that to native homes.

Netherlands submarines and airplanes patroled through and over Indies waters seeking Japanese fleets which were expected to strike soon in new regions.

Japanese attacks were foreseen on both Balik Papan, on the Borneo coast across the Macassar strait from Celebes, and on Amboina island, the second most important naval base of the Netherlands East Indies, 300 miles southeast of the Celebes invasion area across the Molucca sea.

Air raids on both Balik Papan and Amboina had intensified and it was believed certain that Japanese sea-borne and air-transported troops would attack them soon.

But it was reported that the little Dutch garrison, with an intimate knowledge of the terrain, was continuing a successful resistance to overwhelmingly more numerous Japanese.

its six open hearth furnaces, and that by the end of the month 300 of its employes would be furloughed. At the first of this year Empire employed 1,350.

Informed of Golden's letter, James M. Hill, president and manager of Empire, commented only that the company had projected an expansion plan such as that mentioned in the letter. This was done, he explained, in answer to a request from a committee set up by the government from American Iron and Steel Institute members, for information on present and potential production facilities of all steel firms.

SEARCH FAILS TO CONFIRM NEW ATTACK BY SUB

some 14 crewmen seen bobbing about on a rough sea aboard a lifeboat and raft and that rescue parties put out, but were unable to locate the tanker.

The Quogue coast guard station then refused further comment, and the fate of the tanker remained cloaked in mystery today.

Meanwhile, all but two of the 40 officers and men aboard the tanker Norness were rescued and taken to the Newport, R. I., naval base, where Capt. Harold Hansen told their story.

Without warning in midnight darkness, the captain said, an unidentified submarine slipped up on his 9,577-ton vessel, formerly of Norwegian registry, and unleashed three torpedoes.

The first struck the Norness' starboard side, he added, and while he gave orders to abandon ship the submersible circled—all the while on the surface—and pumped two others into the port side.

It was while the men were being lowered in a lifeboat that Kaare Reinertson and Ecil Bremseth plunged into the sea when the boat spilled. They were not seen again.

Captain Hansen disclosed that his oil-laden ship—still partially afloat—was armed, but that the submarine's attack was so swift that there was no chance to fire.

He did not himself see the submarine until "we already were in the small boats," he said, and was unable to determine its identity because "I only saw it for a couple of minutes."

At a mass interview last night, Third Officer Divino Ask said most of the crew was asleep at the time of the attack—1:30 a. m. —and that "we had no warning."

Before being rescued, he added, "we were in boats and on rafts 12 hours."

All the Norness survivors were in fair condition, with the exception of Niles Nikalsen, who suffered a fractured knee cap.

The National Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C., cited as the largest marble building in the world, took less than four years to build and cost about $15,000,000.

the albums in which the customer can paste the stamps until the entire 187 are obtained. When the stamp book is filled the customer by adding a nickel to it can take it to the postoffice and exchange it for a Defense Savings Bond valued at $18.75. This bond in 10 years will be worth $25.

In acting as an Official U. S. Defense Agents the carriers make it easy for their customers to purchase defense saving stamps as a regular part of the weekly budget. Payment for the stamps is made when they are delivered and not in advance.

For this service The News-Journal carriers receive no pay but for the first 187 stamps sold each carrier will be presented with a bronze honor shield to which will be added other honor awards.

The carriers will wear Official U. S. Defense Agent badges and at the end of the campaign will receive a certificate of merit award from the U. S. treasury department.

for the school newspaper, and who was a member of the Blue Tri, Girls' Athletic association, Leaders' club, and chairman of her class history committee. Miller, editor of the school annual, was a member of the Masque and Gavel, Hi-Y and German clubs, and was in the senior play cast. His ambition is to become a chemical engineer.

Over a three-year period Clara Ivanich accumulated 398 points, Betty Bolesky 366, and Miller 362. Points are given on the basis of four points for an A grade, three for a B, two for a C, and one for a D.

Those given honorable mention awards were Frank Jacob Pival, Naomi Eilleen Smith, Margaret Gage, Gretchen Ruth Gehl, Ruth Ingeborg Gerisch, Carolyn Ann Cox, Patricia Olin, Pauline Gladys Auxter, Mary Maxine Bush, and Esther Katherine Ziegler.

Announcement of awards came at the conclusion of a program in which Jack Shiplet, class president, gave a welcome address, Maxine Bush and Loran Maglott read the class will, Ann Wilson the class history, and Nancy Cox the class propnecy. The top ranking scholar, as yet unaware of the honor she was to receive, presented Principal Glenn Rohleder the class gift.

The three leading scholars also were elected members of the National Honor society, took five of the 13 Student Representative Council awards for top work in various school departments, and Miller was awarded a bronze disc by the Bausch-Lomb optical company as the top science pupil over a four year period.

Others named to the National Honor society were Charles Gibbs Palmer, Frank Jacob Pival, Mary Elizabeth Friday, Margaret Gage, Gretchen Ruth Gehl, Ruth Ingeborg Gerisch. Ruth Pauline Hammer, Patricia Olin and Harriett Ann and Marjorie Catherine Smotherman, twins.

Student Representative council awards were given for top work in 10 departments. William Doolittle was named in the athletic department; Evelyn Schuler, Harvey Todd and Dale Jessop, band; Charles Palmer, choir; Betty Bolesky, commercial department; Frank Pival, German and journalism departments; Clara Ivanich, Latin and science departments; Arden Miller, science and social science departments and Charles Palmer, speech department.

All awards were made by Rohleder except those of the National Honor Society. Audrey Stuckey, society member from the June class of 1941, directed that phase of the program.

CHAPTER X

Linda faced her parents belligerently, and then, seeing in their faces that the decision was final, she said:

"I'm going to Chicago. Tonight. I'll stay with Diane. I'll get a job there," she was talking wildly, angrily, but she couldn't stop. "I'll prove how wrong you've been. When Greg and I are happily married, I'll make you regret that you sent me away, and I'll not come home until you ask me. Then we'll see who was wrong. We'll see!"

Linda was ready to leave for Chicago before she allowed herself to think of what she had done, and then she was assailed by her first feeling of misgiving. What had she done? What else, but to defy her parents, forfeit her job, and withdraw her savings from the bank. Now she was leaving home—leaving with bitterness in her heart because she had fallen in love at first sight with a handsome, red-headed young god!

"I can't be making a mistake," she told herself bravely, "and even if I were, I wouldn't back down now. I said I was going—and I am!"

Alone and friendless, Linda boarded the train. She had hoped against hope that her parents might appear before the train left the station, or at least send a message of forgiveness, but they maintained a frigid silence.

At the last minute Linda had abandoned the idea of telephoning Sally, as though she suspected that level-headed girl might condemn her hasty decision. 'Everyone will read about it in the morning paper," she thought grimly, "and by then it will be too late."

Chicago, to the bewildered, heart-sick girl, was strangely frightening.. but Linda scolded herself for a sudden feeling of nostalgia.

"You might as well learn to like it," she told herself firmly, "because this is your new home. Prairievale belongs to your dim past."

Having dispatched her trunk and suitcases to Diane's apartment, Linda embarked on a buying spree in the downtown stores, eager to appear as polished and well-dressed as Diane. Her determination to be natural was abandoned in favor of the artist's conception of how she should look.

"After all," Linda told herself philosophically, "I was happiest when I looked like a post-debutante. Perhaps the girls were right, and that was the real me."

For that reason, Linda's first purchase was an expensive and absurdly modern little hat, replete with veil and shining coq feathers. Next came a chic, black dress and a smartly-tailored black coat.

Wearing her new outfit, Linda studied her reflection in a department store mirror. Surely there was nothing in this beautifully-dressed young woman to suggest the shy stranger who had approached Diane's apartment to a scant fortnight ago.

Still she was becoming uneasy over her unexpected arrival. Perhaps Diane would be gone. Perhaps she would have other guests—other plans. What would the artist think when Linda's battered trunk appeared at her door! Linda had not even considered such a possibility! Then, remembering Diane's gracious invitation, Linda was comforted. It was too late, now for anxiety. She hailed a cab, and with a little thrill of pleasure, gave Diane's address.

The familiar face of Diane's maid peered at Linda, following her sharp rap at the door of the artist's apartment. Louise's teeth flashed a welcome grin.

"I declare," she said, "if it ain't Miss Linda. Come in, chile. Miss Diane ain't said nothin' about your coming."

"She didn't know," Linda admitted. "I—I wanted it to be a surprise, Louise."

The maid glanced at a wall clock and said shrewdly, "Then you're goin' to surprise her before long, 'cause she'll be home in about an hour."

"Is it that late?" Linda asked anxiously. "Good heavens, I've so many things to do!"

While Louise took her things to the guest room, Linda sought the seclusion of Diane's bedroom. She looked up the number of Greg's laboratory in the thick telephone book, and with trembling fingers dialed.

When a man's voice announced that Greg had gone for the day, Linda hung up in disappointment, after leaving her name and address in the hope that Greg might return to his office.

She had no idea how to reach his apartment, and at last decided to ask Diane when the artist reached home. She amused herself by dwelling on what she would say to Greg. Should she tell him the truth, all at once, or be coy in explaining why she had come to Chicago, in order to keep him guessing for awhile? The latter idea was abandoned. Linda was sure that Greg would want all the details immediately. He was, she knew, far too honest, too loyal for sham and pretense. Hadn't he said that her engagement to Kyle made things—awkward? Now that she had severed all connections with her former life, it was becoming increasingly difficult for Linda to realize that she had ever fancied herself in love with Kyle Norman. Even his face seemed vague in her memory, and she was slowly forgetting her bitterness toward her parents.

"They were doing only what they believed was right," she decided. "And when they find out how happy I am everything will be straightened out satisfactorily."

She was sitting before the mirror, brushing her shining curls, when Diane entered, looking pretty and vivacious in a coat of soft, grey fur.

"Linda!" She cried in amazement. "I couldn't imagine whose trunk was standing in the corridor!" and then, "Whatever brought you back to Chicago in such a hurry?"

Linda hugged the other girl with no trace of her former restraint. "A number of things."

Weak with surprise, Diane sank into a chair and stared at her visitor with perplexity written on her features. "I'm afraid I don't understand."

Then how's this for a start?" Linda asked pertly, applying lipstick to her soft mouth. "I've broken my engagement to Kyle, given up my job, and left Prairievale for good!"

"Wa-ait a minute," Diane said slowly. "Let me get my bearings first, and then give me the gory details one by one."

"It's very simple," Linda began. "Cupid has socked me with an arrow. I'm hilarious. Delirious. In other words, Diane, I'm in love!"

She broke off as someone knocked lightly at the door, and Diane jumped to her feet.

"Are you expecting someone?" Linda questioned. "If you are, I'll be only too glad to—" She stopped short as a familiar red-headed young man appeared in the living room, and a beloved voice called, "Hey, in there! Anyone at home?"

Linda stared. This was too good to be true! She had hoped Greg might call her, but to appear so promptly at Diane's apartment—

"Greg, darling!" Linda ran to meet him swiftly, and in that brief instant comprehension dawned on Diane's face.

"Linda!" He stared at her as though he was seeing a ghost. She threw her arms happily around his neck and brushed soft lips against his cheek.

Did she imagine that he moved ever so slightly away from her caress? That a flicker of annoyance passed over his handsome features? For a moment Linda was taken back, but only for a moment, because he was laughing in Diane's direction and saying:

"I thought I'd left her safe and sound in Prairievale."

"You must have dashed here as soon as you got my message," Linda regained her composure after a glimpse of Diane's amused expression.

"Message?" Greg frowned slightly. "What message?"

Linda faltered. "Then, you didn't know I was here?"

Diane broke into the conversation, her manner friendly and gracious. "Greg often stops by on his way from the office to see if I've heard from you."

"Oh." Linda's face cleared. "I've so much to tell you, Greg, that I don't know where to begin."

"Let's save it until later," Diane suggested. "I'm famished and I know you are, too. Greg can take us out to dinner and you two can have a long, cozy chat afterwards."

Linda tried to hide her disappointment at not being left alone with Greg on this momentous occasion, and riding downtown between Greg and Diane her resentment at the artist's intrusion mounted.

"That's an adorable hat, Linda," Diane said, and Linda looked at her coldly. "Is that so strange—my having a good-looking hat?"

Diane frowned at this rebuff. It was unlike Linda to be short with anyone, and Greg's features likewise were grim. He concentrated on his driving with hardly a glance toward his companions.

"Greg wishes we were alone, too," Linda told herself, and the thought was comforting.

When they were seated in a small, candle-lighted tearoom, Diane broke the news Linda had been saving to tell Greg when they were alone—the news of the reason for her trip to Chicago.

"Linda has broken her four-year engagement, Greg," Diane stated quietly.

Greg looked sharply at Linda, and despite her anger at Diane's presumption, she smiled coolly. Trustingly. "It was the only thing to do under the circumstances. You understand what I mean, don't you, Greg?"

Greg looked fleetingly at Diane's innocent face, and again Linda wished with all her heart that the artist had not insisted upon accompanying them. She sensed an undercurrent here—something she could not quite understand. Greg's next words ended the tension:

"You're sure you're not making a mistake, Linda?" He looked rueful. "I'd feel like a heel if I thought—" How like him to be concerned with her happiness, Linda thought.

"I'm perfectly sure, Greg." There was a wealth of love and understanding in her words. Diane was forgotten as Linda stared steadily at him, until the artist said suddenly:

"By the way, Greg—I just remembered Brenda Jordon's wedding reception. You were invited, weren't you?"

"That's right!" he exclaimed. "I had forgotten this was the day."

"Brenda?" Linda asked. "Did she marry that manufacturer?"

Diane nodded. "They were married in a private ceremony this afternoon, and Jerry Coleman arranged for a reception at his family home so Brenda can dazzle her friends before the happy couple leave on their honeymoon," she said sarcastically.

Linda sat very quietly, her eyes on Greg, her ears straining for his words that would cancel his arrangements so that they could be alone together. There was so much she wanted to say to him away from Diane's sharp ears and sharper eyes. But,

"Why don't you come along with us, Linda?" he asked. "It would be pretty dull for you to knock around the apartment alone while we pay our respects to the bride and groom."

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER
MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JANUARY 16, 1942.

When the new seed catalogs start coming, Spring cannot be far behind.

Might be a good idea to practice up on walking before it becomes compulsory.

"Ten dimes make one dollar"—as everyone knows—but few people stop to think that the twenty nickels that go into a pinball machine also make a dollar.

Futile Indictment of Past Mistakes

CHARGES are made by a senate committee, headed by Senator Truman, Democrat, of Missouri, that airplane production has lagged; that there has been waste and extravagance in some phases of the war program; that dollar-a-year men have lobbied for employers; that numerous strikes were inspired by tremendous profits on defense contracts, and that the OPM, lacking power to act, has failed in its intended purpose.

All of which provides an indictment which is as belated and futile as the "hind-sight" which, after December 7, made it quite clear that the United States had failed to provide adequate defense at Pearl Harbor, Wake, Midway and Guam islands, and in the Philippines.

There is no present value in a rehash of the miserable fiasco that was made of last year's preparations for war, with the grab for huge profits in military construction and production, the slow movement toward change-over of industries to war output, the handicap of numerous strikes, the enrichment of go-betweens in award of government contracts, the sad results of such set-ups as OPM, SPAB, and the like.

What is important now is that a man has finally been chosen to do things that should have been done a year or more ago, and that a one-man authority has been created, which, if permitted to function, will make this year one of creditable accomplishments instead of one that will long be remembered with sorrow and regret.

What has already been said by Donald Nelson, as head of the new war production board—with power to act—encourages belief that there will be a quick change in "the old order," that there will be no more half-way measures, and that the potentialities of America are to be transformed into realities.

Plans, as sketched, will not be easy to carry through, but they MUST BE CARRIED THROUGH, for, as Mr. Nelson reminds, "Failure in this job is equivalent to national death."

Book Collection Here Tomorrow

TOMORROW is the day set for house-to-house canvass to provide Mansfield's share of the ten million books being collected for men in training camps and for distribution to the nation's armed forces wherever they may be.

This house-to-house collection, which will be made by Boy Scouts, is intended for the convenience of families that have put aside one or several books to give. Girl Scouts are today visiting homes to explain the purpose of the collection and to ask that books be in readiness for collection.

This campaign is sponsored by the American Library association, the USO and the American Red Cross, with local libraries serving as central receiving stations. In addition to the canvass of homes, a number of collection points have been established in the city, from which books will be taken to the public library for packing and shipping. Miss Lois MacKellar, librarian, is serving as Richland county chairman of what is termed "the Victory Book Campaign."

A check-up of reader-interest among soldiers, sailors and marines discloses need for a wide range of books, not only standard fiction and non-fiction, but books on many technical subjects, such as those dealing with mathematics, radio, engineering, navigation, aviation, physics, automotive mechanics and military history.

A suggestion being offered, as the result of experience during a book collection in the first World war, is that no books be given which are outdated or unsuitable. Proper choice will be from among books that have some practical modern use and ones that have proved interesting to the donors.

For persons who have no suitable books that they wish to give from their own library, purchase of one or several of the 25-cent Pocket-Books, in which there is a wide range for selection, is suggested as an acceptable contribution.

Captain Bell Experienced Officer

WHILE Mansfield's police chief, Meade K. Bates, is in service with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, for duration of the war, appointment of Captain Thomas M. Bell as temporary head of the department assures the competency and experience desirable in such a responsible position.

Captain Bell's long association with the Mansfield police department and his thorough familiarity with the city, make him well fitted to perform the duties that will devolve upon him.

Extent of law enforcement in a city is determined by administration policies, rather than by police department initiative, and no improvements along this line can be anticipated unless there is a change in the administration attitude toward gambling operations such as are now being frowned upon in a number of other Ohio cities but are still prevalent here.

Move To Simplify Containers

THOSE who remember Herbert Hoover as secretary of commerce will recall his campaign for standardization of sizes of containers. He made an excellent beginning at clearing out the confusion which then prevailed. Some progress, but not enough, has been made since his day in that field.

Now, again, the government asks manufacturers of boxes, crates, jars and bottles to conserve war-essential raw materials by simplifying sizes, shapes and finishes.

Time, energy, money and materials are saved by use of standardized containers, and it has been remarked frequently in the past that a large part of the cost of some merchandise is represented by ornate boxes or bottles.

Transportation and warehouse space will also be conserved by greater uniformity in packaging and crating merchandise.

A word to remember from 1941: "There is not enough darkness in all the world to put out the light of one small candle."—Cecil Roberts in Good Housekeeping.

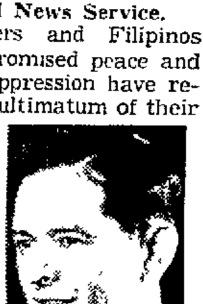
Manila Becomes Paris of Orient

—By JAMES R. YOUNG

Written Expressly for International News Service.

THE foreigners and Filipinos who were promised peace and freedom from oppression have received the first ultimatum of their swashbuckling, saber - rattling militarists who have threatened ten hostages for one Japanese soldier. Manila, the open city, becomes the Paris of the Orient. The Japanese Himmlers have violated their pledge that the "Filipinos should understand our real intention and should work together to maintain public peace and order in the Philippines."



YOUNG

The arrogant Japs today are imposing on an unarmed population the same vicious edicts that have been used in China for five years.

Japanese government, under Nazi control for the past two years, is using the pattern of Naziland's Gestapo in the South Pacific.

Electric-charged barbed wire surrounds the internment camps of American business men and their families, teachers, missionaries and local residents.

"Circulation of rumors concerning the Japanese forces" means reprisal by death and torture. In China the Japs shot the Chinese. Never mind the prison camps. Torture them. Toss them into rivers.

"Irrespective of nationality or race" is the order.

Thousands of Jewish refugees from Europe, long suffering and in want, are today the victims of German-directed Japanese military police, not only in Manila but in Shanghai where a population of 20,000 Jews is trapped.

ONE of these nights when no tropic moon is shining, or in a Manila blackout, a drunken Japanese soldier will run into a native Filipino. In his stupor he will blame the poor native. Daylight, and the innocent Filipino will not have been found.

The army of occupation will impose a sentence of "ten influential persons as hostages who live in or about the municipality where the event has occurred."

Reprisals, sabotage, the burning of buildings, the disruption of communications will follow and Manila will be a living hell 24 hours around the clock.

MANILA people today are experiencing the terrors of living in Japanese-occupied zones. Green-backed currency is flooding the city, opium is easy to get, gambling is flourishing among the military supporters and carpetbaggers who have been the curse of the China coast.

When Japanese reprisals occur in Manila and the news reaches Filipino communities like Sacramento, Calif., there arises the possibility of retaliation. Already shootings have occurred in this area and in Utah. Alien or American-born, mob violence will not recognize the status of Japanese.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Jan. 16, 1922.

Miss Georgia O'Ramey, of New York City, was visiting her parents in Mansfield.

Peter Bissman and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Martin left to spend remainder of winter in Florida.

Group of little friends attended party given for John Bissman, jr., on his eleventh birthday anniversary.

Council voted 10 per cent reduction in pay of city employes, because of financial stringency.

Rev. D. G. Blair went to Hillsdale, Mich., to conduct funeral of former parishioner.

Conductors on street car line reported that some counterfeit tokens were being used for fares.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Jan. 16, 1937.

Mansfielders were visiting the Westinghouse plant at a rate of 1,500 persons an hour at the factory's "family day," a tour of the entire plant and new office building.

William C. Shively, 79, died at his home on Stewart avenue after a brief illness.

Wilma Sauder was elected president of the Girls' Athletic association of Mansfield Senior high school.

R. E. Hutchison was elected president of the Richland County Bar association.

Election officials were taking steps to increase the number of city voting districts to 50.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Benjamin Franklin and Silas Dean, American agents in Paris, on Jan. 16, 1778, received a French minister bearing a treaty recognizing the independence of the United States. The treaty, however, necessitated a few minor changes and was finally signed on Feb. 6.

Daily Bible Thought

Jesus spake, saying, He that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.—John 8:12.

Eyes Were Opened

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

"And as Jesus passed by,' He saw a man which was blind from birth. . . . And Jesus spat upon the ground and made clay of the spittle, and He anointed the eyes of the blind man with clay, and said unto him, 'Go, wash in the pool of Siloam' . . . He went his way therefore and washed, and came seeing."—John IX. 1, 6, 7.

APRIL SUNDAY . . . with a bee bumbling in at the open window, and little yellow roses, cinnamon sweet, tumbling in a golden drift across the sill. But what had all that to do with a blind man, cured and gone again three hundred years?

A curious notion, I thought to myself, sleepy young head nodding over the blurring words. And not a very nice one! Spittle and clay smeared on darkened eyes—ugh! Bible days saw funny ways, I decided, transferring my attention to that gypsy bee. What had blindness to do with life on an April morning!

How soon—how terribly soon—I was to learn the answer to that question. So soon to see a deeper darkness than that on which Christ laid His pitying hand creeping over the golden morning of a life.

Darkness of fears I had never suspected, in my young confidence—darkness of grief I had not known existed.

Darkness, too, of my own willfulness and conceit, stupidity and intolerance, spreading like a black murk over the prospect that had seemed so free and fair.

And now, as you read, you are remembering to, aren't you? Remembering your own life, and how the days dimmed and darkened for you. How, overnight, shock and disillusion fell like a pall across your joyful young vision.

And, remembering, the old bitterness comes back, doesn't it? For why should life be spoiled like that—so cruelly soon? If in time the darkness had lifted.

But it never quite has, has it? Never again shimmered and glowed as it did on that far, first morning—intoxicating you with its wild sweetness, luring you with its gypsy voices. Instead, it has grown steadily dimmer, duller.

Life? What a miserable mockery it has turned out to be, with your blinded heart fumbling helplessly for a gladness it cannot find!

And reading of that other blind man and his cure, your heart is wrenched with sick, self-pitying envy. To see again! To see as you saw at 18, with leaping, laughing vision! If only the miracle could come to you—the blessed, impossible cure!

But it can! The SAME miracle—SAME cure!

But how? How was he cured, that other blind man? In the only way that blindness of the soul can ever be cured.

"And Jesus spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and anointed the eyes of the blind man with clay."

Not out of rare unguent or magical philters was that healing ointment wrought, but out of the common clay. Out of the salving spittle of human sympathy—the simple substance of everyday experience—the cleansing water of the common pool of joy and sorrow, pride and humiliation, in which all men bathe—out of these simple, commonplace things God wrought the healing salve by which a man's sick sight was restored.

Here was a man "blind from his birth" to the wonder and beauty, the comfort and inspiration of the simple scene around him. He needed—he thought a miracle. But there came no miracle. Only Christ's hand touching him with the stuff of that simple scene. And he saw!

And you? Are you really blind? Have shocks, losses disappointments and disillusionments truly dimmed life for you forever? Or have you, yourself, closed your own eyes . . . withdrawn from the common scene in which your life had root . . . the common pleasures and desires which alone can keep life fresh and sharp?

And all you need to make you "see again" is to feel God's hand laid upon your darkened eyes as once it laid at your birth. Then, waking, see—not a new earth and heaven, but the old familiar scene through a more tolerant vision, a tenderer heart.

Vital Trade Problems Claiming Behind-Scenes Attention at Rio

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

RIO DE JANEIRO—While the weightiest minds in Rio are concerned with a declaration of war or severing diplomatic relations with the Axis, another vitally important discussion is going on behind the scenes regarding war supplies and Pan-American trade.

As a matter of fact, reciprocal trade, as Cordell Hull long has pointed out, actually has everything in the world to do with our political alliances.

For instance, it happens that we cannot buy Argentine beef, wheat, corn, and butter because we have great quantities of these products ourselves.

It also happens that Argentina is the chief non-conformist at this conference. Likewise, Chile, in ordinary times, competes with our copper and our fruit. Today, Chile also is lukewarm about too positive action against the Axis.

On the other hand, the tropical countries produce rubber, coffee, cocoa, mahogany, oils, hemp substitutes. These do not compete with us, and it happens that they are the best friends we have against Hitler and Hirohito.

In regard to trade, two sets of discussions are going on behind the scenes in Rio. One is the attempt to get more vital war materials for the U. S. A.—Chilean copper, Bolivian tin Brazilian rubber, Peruvian quinine, Brazilian manganese, quartz, tungsten, tung oil and a long list of other things.

The second discussion is regarding the future. For what Latin-American nations want to know is whether this wartime trade is going to keep up after the Dutch East Indies, Malaya and Africa come back to their own.

America's Tropical Empire.

AS LONG ago as 1935, four years before war started in Europe and seven years before we began to worry about tin and rubber, Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha, then Brazilian ambassador in the United States, urged, begged and cajoled our state and commerce departments to buy more tropical products from South America, instead of Malaya, the Dutch East Indies and Africa.

"We should trade by hemisphere," Aranha argued. "Europe has her colonies in Africa and Asia from which she gets coffee, rubber, tin and all sorts of tropical products. And Europe will always favor her own colonies.

"In South America we produce exactly the same things. Yet you buy from Europe's colonies in Asia and Africa instead of buying from us. Furthermore, you have to haul it half way round the world. It is expensive, and in time of war you might not be able to get it at all."

There are a lot of people in high places in Washington today who wish they had taken Aranha's advice and begun, seven years ago, to build up our rubber and tin supplies in South America instead of the South Pacific.

However, when Aranha, by that time Brazilian foreign minister, came to Washington in 1938 and urged that we send agricultural experts to Brazil to advise regarding increased rubber planting, the U. S. agricultural department actually balked at spending the necessary $40,000 and wanted this amount paid by the state department.

Now that the war is on, the great bulk of Latin-Americans are just as anxious over Singapore and the Dutch East Indies as we are. They see their fall as a great victory for Japan and a great blow to democracy. However, many Latin-Americans cannot understand why we insisted on getting our tin and rubber from across the Pacific, especially when the Dutch and British formed an international cartel to hold up the price against us, and when we could have cultivated the Good Neighbor policy by getting tin and rubber much closer to home.

New Selectees.

WASHINGTON—It needed no mind reading to fathom what was behind that war department announcement of the purchase of 700,000,000 feet of lumber and 240,000 kegs of nails—the biggest order of its kind in U. S. history.

The materials are for the construction of numerous new army cantonments and the enlargement of existing ones.

Army strength, down to 1,600,000 after the demobilization of 28 to 35 year olds last fall, is due for a big increase—at least another 1,000,000 after the next draft lottery following the February 16 registration of men between 21 and 44.

An estimated 24,000,000 will register next month, and on the basis of past experience only about 5 per cent will be rated 1-A; that is, subject to immediate call. Heretofore the army has inducted only men in good physical condition, with no dependents and not engaged in "essential" production.

However, as the need for military manpower develops, 1-A standards will be broadened and many thousands of 1-B, 2-A, and 2-B deferees by pre-war standards will be called up.

For the present, the army still is placing primary emphasis on youth. The February 16 registration is expected to list around 2,000,000 20-21 youngsters and the largest proportion of new inductees will come from this group. Registrants in the 36 to 44 group will have to be in top condition to get in the army at this time.

However, big scale inductions from this age group can be expected by fall, particularly those with no dependents and with previous military service.

For the present the army will take its older-age recruits from the 28 to 35 year olds who were exempted because of dependency or defense work. Instructions already have gone out to all local draft boards to re-examine these deferees with a fine-tooth comb. Thousands are slated to be tabbed 1-A and called to the colors.

Note—Exact size of the war army contemplated is a military secret, but it can be stated that it will be not less than that of World war I. When the president in his message to congress declared that U. S. expeditionary forces will be sent to Britain, the Far East and anywhere else in the world where needed to destroy the Nazis and Japs, he was not making idle talk.

One-Minute Test.

1. Where is Hongkong and how long has it belonged to Great Britain?
2. What is the capital of Hongkong?
3. How did the Philippines become a United States dependency?

Words of Wisdom.

An indiscreet man is more hurtful than an ill-natured one, for the latter will only attack his enemies, and those he wishes ill to; the other injures indifferently both friends and foes.—Addison.

Hints on Etiquette.

If a young man asks a girl to go to a movie with him, he should ask her what picture she would like to see. However, she should ask him if he would like to see the same one, or if he has seen it, so both can enjoy it.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. It is an island lying off the coast of China, from which it is separated by a narrow channel, about 91 miles southeast of Canton. It was ceded to Great Britain in 1842.
2. Victoria.
3. They were ceded to the United States at the conclusion of the Spanish-American war.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I ran into Leon Belasco in the Piccadilly bar. "If next year is as good as last year," he said, "I'll be a very very happy man." I congratulated him warmly. I said, "That's fine." He looked good. Let me explain something about him to you.

I used to know Leon Belasco when he had an orchestra. He did very well. He worked 52 weeks a year, which is par. The last time I saw him was at the Casa Manana when Billy Rose had it.

But Leon never said anything. He just sawed his fiddle. He had a heavy Russian accent. At that time, Russian accents, or any kind of accents, weren't so good on Broadway entertainment stages.

ONE day Leon decided he wanted to become an actor, a comedian. He gave up his band and his income and went to Hollywood, where he starved for two years.

He finally went into a musical review as a "bit" comic and for this service he was paid $32.50 a week. That's all, just $32.50. It wasn't easy living for a man who had been used to plenty of money.

But the bit he played got him a few hearings, and he began bobbing up in small roles in the movies. His parts began to get better and better. His pay checks began to get a little higher, and a little higher.

IN A few days now Leon Belasco, ex musician, ex band-leader, opens on Broadway in a new play by Marc Connolly. The play was written by Connolly in Mexico last summer. It has a Mexican locale, and with his Russian accent still intact. Leon—the guy who was afraid to open his mouth at Billy Rose's Casa Manana, is going to play—a Mexican.

IF YOU were strolling through Times Square the other day you no doubt heard those amplified voices which continually cried, "One . . . Two . . . Three . . . Four" . . They were loud speakers, getting set for the air raid sirens, and all day they were being tested by voices that thundered out at you in magnified tones, crying one . . . two . . . three . . . four . . .

The cops in Times Square were driven to distraction. Everybody grabbed a cop and asked what it was. One cop finally announced at regular intervals . . . "Don't worry . . . they're just loud speakers, being tested."

A Farmer's Diary

Cottontails

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

LAST WEEK, in the cold moonlight of a zero night, I saw the rabbits play. Regardless of the cruel wind that swept across the woodsy slope, eerie shadows scampered zigzag, crisscross, and then chased each other in little spurts of gleeful play.

The wary cottontails played and frolicked like kittens or puppies, without the slightest hint of fear. One large one jumped four feet or more; another tried, but lit short, then from the rear came a third, more agile one who tried his skill while the rest looked on. I believe he won, for four cottontails stood high upon their haunches and peered at the very spot where the hero lit.

I stood in the shelter of the porch and shiveringly observed The wind was far too cold to creep along the bank and slyly look across the weedy edge, at close range.

But just then, the tomcat, Custard, stole from beneath the house, and sniffed the air. Then, cautiously without a sound, he crept up the snowy bank. His spotted white and yellow coat blended well with the snow and the shadows of moving bushes. I watched him creep up until his nose parted a snowy lock of grass just wide enough so that his wide open savage eyes might glimpse his intended victims.

Round and round in circles the playful cottontails would run, and each time, it seemed, their course came nearer the crouching cat. Suddenly he pounced between some standing weeds, and a shrill squeal of terror came upon the wind. A few moments more, and I saw him proudly drag his victim down the bank and head for the opening beneath the east end of the porch. He had a young rabbit, more than half grown.

There was no more movement on the slope. Each cottontail had frozen in his tracks.

The cellar of our little house is only half the size of the upper floor. Beneath the floor boards of the two east rooms is a shallow space, where the furnace pipes come briefly through the cellar wall, and enter the bedrooms. The cats and dogs were quick to claim this as their place of sleep, for thick dry leaves are there, and with furnace heat, it makes a cozy combination.

Here Custard took his prize, and even after I was in bed, I fancied I heard him crunching bones beneath the floor.

RECORDS SHOW PRIORITIES CUT BUILDING HERE

Construction Permits Take Sharp Drop; Only Three Issued In January.

Fears of Mansfield real estate dealers and contractors that government priority restrictions on building materials would cut sharply into this city's regular building program in 1942 seem to be well founded.

In the first 16 days of January, only three building permits have been issued and they represent projects worth only $2,390.

In the first month of 1941, a total of 24 building permits were issued and represented more than $75,000 worth of new construction.

During January, 1941, twenty new homes were built and four non-residential buildings erected. So far this year, only one garage has been built, one glass front is being added to the front of a drug store and a physician is making an addition to his offices.

Permits issued so far include Central Drug store, 90 North Main street, an $800 glass front; Roland Miller, 305 Bulkley avenue, a $90 frame garage; and Dr. Robert F. Zellner, 285 Glessner avenue, an addition to his office, $1,500.

Real estate men and contractors have expressed the belief that wartime conditions will reduce the amount on new building to almost nothing.

These building men pointed out that the regimentation of copper, steel and other strategic materials for armaments will bring a sharp contraction in new building construction this year.

Although the construction of low cost homes, especially those below the $6,000 mark are being allowed, contractors say that it is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain plumbing fixtures and other necessary articles for the new homes.

During 1941, Mansfielders built themselves 268 new homes worth more than $2,000,000. Other construction such as new warehouses, garages, business houses and remodeling amounted to $763,248.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Ten-year-olds especially will like two of the new books displayed in the Mansfield Public Library children's department. One has a witch among its characters and the other concerns two very small girls who were playmates.

NATHANIEL'S WITCH, by Katharine Gibson—Nat wanted to go to sea worse than anything but he would have given up the idea if he could have helped his brother, Martin, to become a captain and ship-owner. He had these wishes though before he met his witch. By giving away Christmas gifts they broke the witch's spell and she became a real person. Whether or not you believe the tale depends entirely upon the color of your hair.

BETSY-TACY, by Maud Hart Lovelace—Being such close friends Betsy and Tacy were seen together so often that you never would expect to see them separately. Their names even look better linked together. They were very small girls but they had picnics together and started to school together. Their summer games at "dressing up" were great fun. The book tells of their everyday adventures with pictures now and then to make the story seem even more real.

Wear a different kind of home frock—a gay dirndl type like Pattern 9983 by Marian Martin! It's young, it's new, it's becoming to every figure because of the fitted basque bodice and dirndl skirt that's gathered just in front, leaving the back neat and slim. The front buttoning is so convenient for easy donning and easy laundering too. Don't you like the way the round neck-band has tiny gathers below it? Make this band of contrast if you're using contrast for the skirt. A tropical-print cotton looks very vivacious with a plain bodice, which may have short, three-quarter or long sleeves. If you're vacationing now, this makes a stunning resort frock.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

That my bit of news had disconcerted my father, I knew from the staccato tapping of his fingers on the arm of his chair—sure sign that he is annoyed or puzzled

"May I ask," he said frigidly at last, "what Mary is going to do with her time between now and the time she goes to the theater?"

"If Noel doesn't reject her offer," I said, "she is going to spend it in some sort of outing with him."

His frown was something portentous now, then as suddenly it vanished, and he smiled at me.

Regrets Delay.

"Well, I suppose Noel has some reward coming to him," he said. "But I do not like so much delay in the meeting of Mary and Redfield. However, if Mary is already committed to this outing with her husband, it would be most unwise to change it. Noel might begin to suffer again, with possibly disastrous results to our plan."

There was a sneer, rather a gibe, in his voice now.

But I knew better than to come to the young husband's defense with even a word. If the Chief were willing to put off Mary's meeting with Redfield, it would be the height of folly to risk any comment.

Spencer Wants Details.

"When are you going to see Redfield?" he asked abruptly.

"As soon as I can find out where he is," I answered. "Whenever you wish, I will see Mr. Veritzen and get a line on Redfield's whereabouts."

"That can wait a few minutes," he said, surprisingly enough, for I had figured that he would want to lose not a minute of time in my contacting the actor. "You say you have a selling point—or a talking point, I believe was the way you put it—to use when you get in touch with him?"

"Yes I have, but subject to your approval, of course."

"Let me hear it," he said laconically.

"Of course you remember that when Stephen Redfield wished to see me last night, he asked me some pertinent questions concerning the whereabouts of Jack Bickett; the same sort of questions that Marion asked over Mrs. Ticer's telephone, plainly at the gangster's bidding."

Redfield's Flimsy Yarn.

"I remember that perfectly," he said. "You told me he gave you an exceedingly flimsy yarn about his reasons for wishing to contact Jack."

"It wasn't very convincing," I said, "and of course I gave him no information whatever. I possessed none, in the first place."

"Of course not," my father interjected.

"I wondered, however," I said diffidently, "if I couldn't say to Redfield that I had just remembered some one to whom Jack used to send an occasional letter—an old friend of ours—and that if he wished, I would ask her if she had heard from Jack recently."

Madge Outlines Plan.

"I suppose you mean Mrs. Stewart," he said, and his words called up a vision of the sweet old face belonging to the woman with whom my mother, Jack Bickett—my "brother cousin"—and I boarded for so long a time.

"I mean nobody," I said firmly. "Of course Mrs. Stewart prompted my reference, for she used to get letters from Jack. She also has not heard from him in a long time. But not for worlds would I permit Mrs. Stewart to come in contact with Redfield. I thought, however, that if I approached him with this purely fictional reference to Bickett, I might casually bring the conversation around to Mary."

GRASP YOUR CHANCES

A goodly proportion of fine bridge consists of spotting mistakes by your opponents and making the most of them. If you had to depend only upon what you could devise, which could work against perfect work by your opposition, you would be all right against paragons. But you will never meet a paragon on this earth. Real human beings make errors, and unless you become good at recognizing them you will not capitalize them.

West led the spade 5 against this contract, to the singleton K. Seeing a chance to get into the dummy for two purposes—using the spade A for a club discard and leading for a diamond finesse—South figured out that his best chance was in finding West with the heart K. He therefore laid down the heart A and then the 2. If West had played low, the declarer would have come up with the J and would have made his contract, as you can see.

This West was too sharp for that, however. He came in with the heart K and then led the club Q. It turns out that covering this with the K would have made the contract for South. It would have forced the A, and the next club would have been won by West. But South decided to play East for a doubleton A. So he ducked in dummy, then ducked the club J, hoping the A would have to play. When it did, he thought he was safe, but he was not.

East happened to be Herebrt J. Gerst, of Norfolk, Va., playing some of his best bridge in the nationals at Richmond. When he played that A on his partner's good card he did it not compulsorily, but voluntarily. Then he fired back his remaining club. The ruff of that by his partner beat the contract. If he had let the club J ride, the contract would have been made, South's last club being discarded on the spade A and the diamond finesse working.

Boards Face Giant Reclassifying Task

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—The announcement of Mr. Donald Nelson's new job and appointment was merely a White House statement of intent. The necessary executive order has not appeared.

Gen. Johnson.

In this state of affairs it is impossible to make a dependable analysis of what has been done or what will happen. For this reason particular comment must be withheld until these uncertainties are clear.

The one big and inescapable point is that at last, as it now seems, authority and responsibility for our war production is lodged in a single pair of hands.

We are told by some commentators "at last we have a Beaverbrook" and that our production plan for overhead control will take its lessons from the "British scheme."

As a matter of fact, the "British scheme" is merely a copy of the American scheme of 1918 and, if these comments are correct, we are copying ourselves via Britain after an almost inexcusable delay of two years.

Skip that. There is no doubt that, however the details of its application may later appear. One-man authority, however belated, was an absolutely necessary step and the president has taken it with boldness and courage.

As is thoroughly known in Washington, and must be getting pretty well known throughout the country, one reason for most of our delay and cross-purpose in war-production was a bitter offstage fight between the old New Dealers and almost any new-comers to Washington as to who should manage the industrial part of this effort. The New Dealers didn't want the fingers of any army, navy or businessmen in that pie.

It is true that Mr. Nelson as a salaried employe of Sears, Roebuck and company was in business as purchasing agent for the wide variety of products sold by that company. In that sense he is a "businessman." But he has almost no record as a great industrial organizer and administrator capable of tackling the biggest industrial job of organization and administration that we have ever seen.

His appointment is largely due to the influence of Harry Hopkins and is perfectly acceptable to the most radical of New Dealers. If one can talk of "victory" in such a self-seeking interior government at such a crisis as ours, this is a "victory" for the New Dealers. There should be no such struggle at the top. How can we call on the country for "unity" throughout the body of the nation when we have a lack of unity at its heart.

Let's skip that, too. The real test is ahead of us and it depends on how Mr. Nelson does his job. He ought to do it well. He has been in the maelstrom of war-Washington and depression-Washington long enough to understand the conflicting forces that must be composed. He has seen enough of the faltering, blundering slips we have made in war production to know many of the blind-alleys and pit-falls to avoid.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(No 19—The Lady of the Fans)

BROADWAY'S favorite dish is nostalgia—nostalgia salted with tears from the sentimental heart and embellished with laughter left over from some pretty yesterday The perfect setting for the kind of reminiscing that Broadway loves is a plush night club at 4 in the morning. Then the shadows of the empty room seem full of pictures of things almost, but not quite, forgotten; memories sharpen, and the stillness becomes string music to fit the mood.

Kilgallen

There were five of us in the club that morning when we talked about a lady of a quieter era who was a great legend on Broadway—the Lady of the Fans, Nora Bayes. There were a glamorous actress, a successful playwright, a politician, a songwriter and a columnist.

* * *

The conversation drifted into nostalgia when the actress picked up a little fan that had been lying on the table and whisked it across the tip of her nose in a coquettish gesture and said: "Isn't it silly? R— gave it to me for my birthday. He must have had Sally Rand in his mind."

THE PLAYWRIGHT: Not Sally Rand. Faith Bacon was the one with the fans. Sally switched to balloons years ago.

THE SONGWRITER: When I think of fans I think of Nora Bayes. Remember her? Remember how she used to handle those fans?

THE ACTRESS: Yes, marvelously. I remember a party at her flat in London one year—don't ask me what year!—when she tried to teach Will Rogers how to manipulate one. Will almost sprained his wrist.

THE SONGWRITER: I remember that house well—7 Park Lane. That's where I first met Noel Coward. Irving Berlin told me his stuff showed promise. He ate hungrily and insulted everyone Before he left, he sold Nora a song for ten pounds—a comedy ditty. She didn't even look at it. She gave it to Bea Lillie as a present the next day.

THE ACTRESS: I think I know which one it was. (Sings softly) "You must be ver-r-y kind to Awnt Jessie . . . She's neverrr been a mother or a wife . . . Though her kiss is worse than death . . . You must never hold your breath . . . For charity, you know, begins at hom-m-e!"

THE POLITICIAN: Is that why you call her Aunt Bea? . . . And before Coward was famous . . . say, that must have been years ago.

THE ACTRESS: Don't bother to figure it out.

THE SONGWRITER: You know, Nora Bayes was the original platinum blonde. Not actually blond—her hair was prematurely white. She always wore a stagey blond wig.

THE PLAYWRIGHT: I remember how she looked

THE SONGWRITER: One afternoon the Prince of Wales visited her house with Charles Cochran and Evelyn Laye. There was a beauty, that Evelyn. Anyway, Evelyn remarked how beautiful Nora looked with her wig off and just her white hair, and the Prince of Wales—who'd never seen her without the wig—agreed. Well, at the next performance at the Palladium Nora took off the wig and asked the audience how they liked her hair. Their answer was a cheer that shook the roof . . . And Nora never wore the blond wig again.

THE POLITICIAN: I wonder where her children are now, and what they're doing?

THE ACTRESS: I wish I knew. Let's see, Leonora should be about 20 now, and Norman about 21. And that darling Peter — she adopted him in London—he must be about 18.

THE PLAYWRIGHT: Just old enough to go to war.

CLEARS DOUBTS ON POWER OF OUTPUT CHIEF

Report Says FDR Makes It Clear Nelson To Have 'Final Decision.'

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt was said on high authority today to have made it unmistakably clear to those concerned that he intends to vest in Donald Nelson, chief of the new war production board, final decision on all production and supply matters.

Members of congress have been waiting anxiously for an executive order formally outlining Nelson's duties. Some of the legislators had expressed fear that the president might not delegate such broad authority to Nelson.

There have been reports that agencies within the present defense setup raised objections to subordinating their authority over certain phases of the program. Some army and navy officials were said to have complained privately at the prospect that a civilian would have the final word on such vital matters.

But one well informed official said there was no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt would insist that Nelson be the boss.

As projected by this official, the new setup probably would work this way:

Nelson would receive from the army and navy lists of their requirements under the new $56,000,000,000 war production program. He would sit down at a table with the chief of staff, chief of naval operations and the heads of all of the agencies concerned with production and supply.

Preliminary to filling the orders for "must equipment, he would ascertain the available supply of the necessary basic materials. If there was not enough on hand immediately for all needs, Nelson would apportion the supply between the army and navy.

He would determine, from information furnished him by the heads of the agencies, the new facilities necessary to produce the equipment and materials needed and would order action taken to construct them. At the same time, he would receive reports on the progress of the program and be able to check up on any lags that developed.

BACK INNES

Butler Druggist Approved For Election Board Post.

Charles A. Innes, Butler druggist, had been endorsed today by the county Democratic executive committee for a place on the Richland county election board.

It was understood that Innes, if appointed by the secretary of state, would succeed Fred Bricker of Shelby who has served two four-year terms.

The Republican committee recently endorsed George Williams of Shelby for reappointment to the board which has four members. Hold-over members are George Balliet, Democrat, and Earl A. McFarland, Republican. Board membership is divided equally between the two parties.

Appointments are expected soon from the secretary of state who directs the election set-up. New terms will begin March 1.

HILL FACING PRISON TERM

Congressman's Secretary Is Convicted of Perjury In Propaganda Probe.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — George Hill, for 20 years a secretarial employe of Rep. Hamilton Fish, R., N. Y., faced a possible maximum sentence of 20 years in prison today because he lied to a grand jury which wanted to know what he could tell it about Axis propagandists in this country.

The 45-year-old, slightly built defendant, described by the government as "an important cog" in a German propaganda machine which "reached into the halls of congress to spread its lies." was convicted by a district court jury on two counts of perjury late yesterday.

Justice F. Dickinson Letts may impose sentence of two to 10 years on each count when Hill comes before him again, probably next Friday.

Hill was accused specifically of perjuring himself when he denied hiding away eight sacks of propaganda sought as evidence.

JAMESON TO RUN

State Senator Says He'll Be Candidate Again.

Joseph Jameson of Lorain, one of the two Republican state senators who have served Richland county and the 27th-29th Ohio district for the past two years, had announced today that he will seek the nomination for re-election this year.

Unless the state redistricting plan is upset by Republicans, however, Jameson will not be in Richland county's district after he completes his present term.

Under the plan set up by Secretary of State John E. Sweeney and State Auditor Joseph Ferguson, Richland county will be placed in a new 29th-31st district with Ashland, Crawford, Seneca, and Wyandot counties.

Jameson will seek the Republican nomination in the new 27th-28th district which includes Lorain, Medina, Wayne, and Holmes counties. He is the first to announce for the office in his district.

FOGS FIRE

BATTLE CREEK, Mich.—(U.P.)—Profiting from experience of London firefighters in coping with spreadout blazes from incendiary bombs, the Battle Creek fire department has acquired a truck with attachments for throwing a fog around a fire and suffocating it.

The truck is equipped with a fog nozzle which sends out a curtain of atomized water that can blanket a blaze, shut off oxygen and thus smother fire.

GETS FILE

ASHLAND — Pete Marsh of Sandusky, indicted for carrying concealed weapons and arraigned in Ashland common pleas court Thursday afternoon pleaded guilty and was given a sixty-day jail sentence by Judge H. E. Culbertson. Marsh also had to pay court costs. He will serve his sentence in the county jail.

SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION FACES RETURN TO 'HORSE, BUGGY DAYS'

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— State Rep. Walter Tarr of Cincinnati who believes that "a little bit of walking wouldn't hurt our school children at all" meets today with the state school survey commission to discuss the possibility of curtailing Ohio school bus operation.

The commission, although called to study recodification of state school laws, probably will consider returning to the horse and buggy days so far as transportation of school children is concerned.

Tarr, chairman of the commission, said that because of school centralization it would be impractical to abolish bus transportation for students entirely but added that in "many instances" operation of school buses was "a racket" in which bus owners with contracts "hijack" students from one district to another to increase their income.

BOARDS RECEIVE ALIEN RULINGS

They Can Get Draft Exemptions But Lose Citizenship Rights.

Aliens registered for military service may apply for exemption from active service if they are natives of neutral countries, but by doing so they forfeit their rights ever to become citizens of the United States, selective service boards were told today.

Richland county boards and others throughout the nation were instructed today to re-classify aliens. Enemy aliens and those who refuse to declare themselves will be continued in class 4-C, keeping them out of military service.

Natives of neutral countries or those fighting with the Allies will be classified as American citizens unless they seek relief from duty, boards were told.

Up and Down THE STREET

When the Mansfield Community Players decided to present the comedy, "George Washington Slept Here," as their second production, Ernest J. Wessen, Mansfield rare book collector, engaged in a little research to see just how close Washington came to sleeping in Mansfiel dor Richland county. He found that Washingsleeping in Mansfield or Richland county than the present site of Steubenville. That was in 1770 when Washington made a journey down the Ohio river with his lifelong friend, Colonel William Crawford with a view of acquiring valuable lands. On that occasion Washington and Crawford spent the night in the Steubenville area.

Mansfielders with a spare portable radio or an old phonograph that is still in working order can help brighten army camp life for the boys by turning the articles over to the Mansfield Music Study club. The club's defense committee, headed by John Grabler, has joined a nation-wide movement to solicit small radios, phonographs and records for camps. Soldiers at Ohio army posts will be served first and the boys from home who are in camp elsewhere will then get any additional radios and phonographs that the club receives. Grabler can be reached at 120 Sherman avenue, or his telephone number is 2229-1.

William Peck had a headache, and his chum, Ken Smith, had his most embarrassing moment yesterday when the two high school pupils were entering a Park avenue bakery, as Ken, forgetting that Peck was right behind him slammed the glass door on his pal before he was half-way through. Hearing a crash and the tinkle of glass, Ken looked around in time to see Peck stagger back, holding his head, while only the frame of the door remained whole. A clerk and a patron in the bake shop bandaged a minor cut over the boy's eye, while the glass was swept up and a new pane installed.

Police yesterday caught up with a Mansfield motorist who has collected nine traffic violation tickets during the last few months. Finding his car parked overtime on Park avenue west, a patrolman tagged it, looked up the license number in the files and finding three other tags written against the same motorist, had the car towed away to a garage. Further investigation revealed that there were five more tickets written against the driver. Unable to get his auto until the tags were paid, the motorist came to police headquarters and paid his $9 worth of fines and an additional dollar to pay for the cost of towing his car to the garage.

SEEK SHARE FOR OHIO IN BIGGER ARMY

State Draft Inspector Hints Possible Relaxing of Physical Standards.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio, to contribute its share of manpower for the new 3,600,000-man army without calling up men with dependents, will have to do "a tremendous job of reclassification."

State selective service officials said today that Ohio draft boards will have to tighten up classifications, thumb through the deferred lists and possibly relax physical standards.

"There is no doubt that Ohio can supply its share of the enlarged army sought by the war department," Edward S. Neese, chief state draft inspector, said, "but to do it without calling men with dependents will mean a tremendous job of relassification—backtracking through the cases of the thousands of men already deferred."

Present regulations do not permit drafting of men with dependents or those with minor physical defects which would prevent them from being perfect military material. Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, yesterday assured local boards that for the present, at least, those regulations would not be changed.

He urged reclassification of as many men as possible on the basis of more strict adherence to regulations and he suggested that at least 100,000 men might be made available for military service if physical standards, particularly in regard to teeth, were lowered.

Neese said that Ohio's share of the increased army would be obtained from present reservoirs of Class 1-A men, reclassification of the thousands of men on deferred lists now, and the 20-21-year-olds and the men between 36 and 44 who will register for the draft Feb. 16.

The Feb. 16 registration alone should yield Ohio between 52,000 and 58,000 men eligible for immediate service with the army, he said.

Neese added that new registrants between 20 and 21 would total approximately 58,300 in Ohio and that from 50 to 60 per cent of them, or 29,000 to 35,000 men, would be available for army duty.

New registrants between 36 and 44, who also become eligible for the draft under the new selective service act, will total approximately 464,000 in Ohio. Because of physical disabilities and dependents, not more than 23,000 will be available for service, Neese estimated.

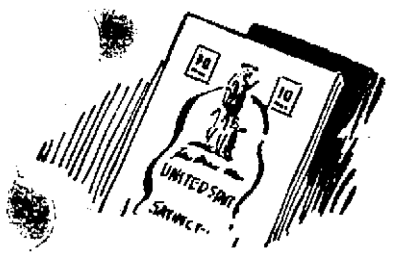
This is the 10c Defense Savings Stamp for which your carrier is authorized to take orders, supplying you with an order blank for the purpose.



This is the Official Album your carrier gives you free with your first stamp. In it you can paste the 10c Defense Stamps he brings you each week—as many as you order. The album will hold 187 Defense Stamps and, when filled, can be exchanged (with 5c) for a $25 Defense Bond.

The $25 Defense Savings Bond you receive in exchange for your filled album (and 5c) is always worth what you paid for it. The United States Treasury guarantees this. It can be redeemed after 60 days, but if you hold it for 10 years, the bond for which you paid $18.75 will be worth $25—an increase of 33⅓ percent, or 2.9 percent interest compounded semiannually on your original investment.

THEATERS

Unusual Picture.

"How Green Was My Valley," Richard Lelewellyn's moving story of a Welsh mining family that was acclaimed a great novel and then a great picture opens Saturday at the Ohio. The picture revolves around this family, a lovable group, whose peace and prosperity were destroyed by the ever-multiplying complexities of modern life. The members are brought to life on the screen by Donald Crisp as "Gwilym Morgan," head of the family; Sara Allgood as the mother, and a cast that includes John Loder, Patric Knowles, Richard Fraser, Evan Evans, James Monks and Roddy McDowell, the latter as the young son. Maureen O'Hara and Anna Lee are other players. John Ford directed.

Mystery Romance.

Humphrey Bogart gets on the right side of the law in Dashiell Hammett's mystery-romance, "The Maltese Falcon," opening Saturday at the Madison. Instead of playing a desperate criminal and a hunted human being Bogart plays a hard-boiled private investigator with a weakness for pretty women. Mary Astor plays Bogart's client, a woman with a baffling story about her runaway sister. Gladys George, Peter Lorre and Sydney Greenstreet are in the cast. "Blues In the Night," the second film has Priscilla Lane, Betty Field and Richard Whorf.

Mystery Comedy.

"Whistling in the Dark," a mystery-comedy with the Mansfield comic, Red Skelton, Conrad Veidt and Ann Rutherford is playing at the Ritz. George Montgomery in "The Last of the Duanes," the second attraction.

Sinister Theme.

"Ladies In Retirement," the sinister story of a young woman confronted with providing a home for her unwanted and addled sisters, opens Saturday at the Park. Based on the successful stage play by the same name the picture introduces Ida Lupino in the role of "Ellen Creed," whose sisters drive her to murder. Edith Barrett and Elsa Lanchester play the sisters and the cast includes Louis Hayward and Isobel Elsom. "Parachute Battalion," with Robert Preston and Nancy Kelly is the second picture.

Dramatic Story.

"Dr. Kildare's Wedding Day," with the usual "Kildare" cast, Lionel Barrymore, Lew Ayres and Laraine Day opens today at the Majestic. William Boyd is starred in "Texas Manhunt," the second picture.

Motorists in Florida who want a certain serial number will pay $1 for the privilege, and the revenue received will go to dependent children.

Over in Ashland they're beginning to believe our Mansfield Tygers are trusting souls only up to a point.

Bill McKee, the Ashland scrivener, opines that Prof. Jim McDowell, the Ashland timekeeper, must not have an honest face, and reports that in Tuesday night's cage scramble between the Tygers and the A's, Mansfield permitted McDowell to keep time all by himself for three quarters until the score was 28-27 in favor of Ashland.

Then, says McKee, the Mansfields rushed a timer over to the bench to keep check on Prof. Jim.

Well, there are times when time is of the essence

It makes a funny yarn the way Bill tells it, but it may be that Mansfield merely wanted a checker to keep the Tyger bench informed on the passing of the seconds.

"Shucks," says Bill, "we'd have had a checker there at the start of the game."

That's a good idea too. I've seen games decided and small riots started on decisions by timekeepers.

That Snooks Jenkins is still hotter than a pistol for the Fremont Little Giants. He canned 20 points the other evening while the Giants were defeating Tiffin Junior Order by only 31-24 for their seventh straight victory.

Incidentally Dick Behr of the Fremont News-Messenger says I was in error recently when I said Jenkins was largely responsible for Mansfield's double-overtime defeat in the Sandusky tourney last spring, pointing out that Jenkins scored only four points.

If he had scored no points at all I still would not have been in error. Mansfield lost that game when some of the players started engaging in a personal battle with Jenkins, breaking up the teamwork so that nothing new was added to the safe lead with which the Tygers started the final period.

Newark's Wildcats have just taken over undisputed lead of the Central Ohio league through a 37-28 win over Zanesville

Among those in the know, the Central Ohio has long been regarded as one of the toughest cage circuits, year after year in the state of Ohio.

Mansfield's Tygers need not feel so bad over dropping that early-season decision at Newark

For the second game of this night the Mansfield Athletic Supplies of the City 'A' loop will meet the Cooper-Bessemers of Mt. Vernon. Play starts at 7:30 p. m.

Mansfield High Seeks Revenge

Scout Says Tygers Should Beat Quakers.

"THOSE Quakers looked plenty tough, but I think we can beat 'em tonight."

That's the report of Scout Harry Mehock regarding tonight's cage battle between the Mansfield Tygers and New Philadelphia at Senior high gym.

Mehock saw the Quakers lose to Dover 39-51 Tuesday night, and in spite of the score was impressed by the work of two big boys, Kirk, center, and Halter, guard, who are used for under-basket duty at both ends of the court.

* * *

Between them, Kirk and Halter rang up 21 of New Philly's 39 points against Dover. They'll have to be slowed down if the Tygers are to win tonight and gain revenge for a double-overtime defeat in the Tuscarawas town last season.

Tonight will be the last appearance of the Tygers before the home crowd until Feb. 7 when they tangle with Mt. Vernon's Yellow Jackets.

Next Friday and Saturday nights they will spend in Youngstown, taking on Chaney and Ursuline, and the following Friday night will find them at Bellevue.

After dropping their first three games, the Tygers have come back for an even break at four victories and four defeats in interscholastic competition, and have added an extra win at the expense of an alumni quintet.

Coach Vern Hoffman may change his starting lineup tonight to include Romano and Winbigler at forwards, Dietzel center, and Shiplet and Krupp guards

* * *

The reserves are scheduled for a preliminary game at 7 o'clock with the main attraction booked for 8:15.

Byron Nelson Battles Jinx

Leads Field In $5,000 Oakland Open Tourney.

OAKLAND Calif (AP) — Ten years a contender and never a winner Byron Nelson battled par and a California winter golf tournament jinx today as he teed off leading the field in the second round of the $5,000 72-hole Oakland open championship.

The big boy from Toledo, who has won U. S. open and P. G. A. titles, started the second eighteen with a stroke advantage. He led the opening round with a three-under par 67 for the Sequoyah course.

* * *

In nine other California appearances along the golden trail of golf, Nelson's star flickered at times, but invariably faded. This may be the year he beats the jinx.

The tournament favorite, Ben Hogan, and three others trailed Nelson with 68's. Hogan shared the spot with Mike De Massey of Morro Bay, Bill Nary of Del Mar and Lawson Little, San Francisco.

Appleseed Trims Butler Reserves

Johny Appleseed cagers drubbed the Butler reserves 25-17, on the Butler floor Wednesday night.

Leading, 7-6, at the end of the first quarter, Appleseed trailed by one point, 12-11, at the half and forged ahead to a 17-15 advantage at the end of the third quarter.

Les Meyers led the Pioneer scoring with four baskets and one free throw for a total of nine points

Appleseed also won the reserve game 19-13.

WANT GEHRINGER AS COACH FOR TIGERS

DETROIT — (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have retired Charley Gehringer, slick fielding second baseman, by omitting him from their 1942 playing roster, but the door to his return to baseball is more than slightly ajar.

The Detroit management is endeavoring to interest the 38-year-old mechanical man infielder in a coaching job under Manager Del Baker where he conceivably would undergo the usual conditioning process and thus might be available for active duty in an emergency. But thus far the untalkative Gehringer, pursuing his business as a manufacturer's agent, has been somewhat more than characteristically silent.

WOOD CALLS HIMSELF "GHOST CHAMPION"

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP)— Golf professional Craig Wood calls himself "the champion holder of ghost championships."

He's got the national open golf championship cinched for the war period for the U. S. G. A. has cancelled the competition until peace returns.

"I won the Oklahoma City and Reddy Tee tournaments in 1929," said Wood. "They were never held again. I won the Galveston open in 1932, the Radium Springs open in 1933, the Lakes open in Australia in 1934, and the New York Metropolitan open in 1940. None was ever held again."

Hedges Holds Cage Lead

Maintains Elementary School Race Advantage.

As Mansfield elementary school cage clubs went into their second round of play yesterday Hedges maintained its clutch on first place by dropping Prospect school, 24-15. Bowman fattened its second place average by beating the fourth place Woodland team, 13-10, the third place Newman team clubbed Brinkerhoff, 25-5, Western tripped West Fifth, 4-0, and Bushnell shaded Carpenter, 13-12.

With the game tied up, 10-all, the Hedges players came to life as the second half opened on the Johnny Appleseed floor and caged six points in the third quarter and eight in the last to win handily. High scorer, however, was Swank of Prospect with nine points.

In building its win over Woodland Bowman went into the lead as the game opened and held its advantage all the way. Ladd, Bowman forward, led the scoring with six points.

Just three men from each side scored in the Newman-Brinkerhoff game, but two of the men on the Newman team scored 11 and 12 points, enough to trounce Brinkerhoff's total of five tallies. High scorers were Poth with 11 points and Pritchard with 12

Western school worked itself up to fifth place by doing all the scoring to beat West Fifth, 4-0, with 10 Western boys getting into the game.

Carpenter, tied with West Fifth for eighth place, almost staged an upset over Bushnell. However, trailing by two points at the end of the third quarter, they were only able to gain one point in the last stanza, and lost, 13-12.

Little Town That Wasn't There Cops 9 Straight Wins

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Bit of basketball mystery-drama entitled "The Ghost Team of Butler County—or The Little School That Wasn't There!"

Early this week, in a Cincinnati newspaper (Enquirer), there appeared the following item:

"Little Elmsdale high school, located on route 4 near Middletown, is claiming outstanding success in the first year the farm lads have tried basketball. Elmsdale has won nine straight, the latest a 42-25 swamping of Riley.

* * *

"Syd Rachel is Elmdale's star, and quite a cageman he is. In six games Rachel has marked up 140 points. His effort against Riley was a mere high-point job of 23 points. Joe Muhlenkamp, another good shot for Elmsdale, who would possibly star on any other team, is somewhat dwarfed by Rachel."

Now, we've been shuffling scholastic cage and grid teams for several years, and that "Elmsdale" didn't strike a responsive chord in our memory. We had a hunch it wasn't one of Ohio's 953 class B or 201 class A institutions.

So we started sleuthing. Telephone calls about Elmsdale brought these answers:

H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner: "Never heard of an Elmsdale high school."

State department of education: "There's no such school in Ohio."

Supt. C. H. Williams, Butler county schools: "There's no Elmsdale school in this county. Nearest thing we have is Williamsdale, but it doesn't have a high school. If you find an Elmsdale, please let me know about it, for I'd like to know where it is, too."

* * *

Then we checked up on Riley, latest victim of the elusive Elmsdales. It seems there is a Reily in Butler county, but that team lost to unbeaten Hanover last week, and has never heard of Elmsdale, Rachel of Muhlenkamp.

The only Riley in the state is Riley township of Pandora, 135 miles from Middletown, and class B teams, in their first year of competition, just don't travel that far.

Not only that, but the U. S. Postal Guide shows, in all the 48 states, there is not one Elmsdale postoffice.

Right there we started to suspect, Sherlock Holmes that we are, that someone had tried to "slip one over on the press."

* * *

And this little yarn is just to explain to you folks who might have seen stories here and there from other sources, why this week's Associated Press high school basketball roundup did not include Elmsdale in the "won nine, lost none" list.

Four Quintets Tie for Second

Mansfield Printers Hold Lead By One Game.

Mansfield Printing retained first place in the Commercial "B" league last night at Colony alleys by a one-game margin after dropping a 1-2 decision to Ingram-Martin.

* * *

Four teams are tied for second place, Jones Chris-Craft, Ringside Nite club, Ingram-Martin, and Kent Rummell.

Only two shutouts were recorded in the league, by Hecht & Casey and M. & M. Service Station.

Jim Weems again led the league with a 641 total on games of 225-214-202, and Funston turned in a 608 total. Henry Brinkman rolled high game of 251.

Rams Meet Butler Club

Get Chance To Take Over Top Loop Spot.

Having last week sloughed Lexington from the top place in the Richland county basketball race, Madison's Rams tonight will get their first official chance at the other team ahead of them, the Butler Bulldogs.

Butler has played one more loop tilt than the Rams and now holds the top rung of the ladder with three wins to Madison's two. However if beaten tonight, the Bulldogs will be reduced probably to third place. Plymouth now tied for second with the Rams should have little trouble with the last place Shiloh club.

In the non-loop tilt between the Rams and Butler, Madison barely shaded the Bulldogs, 24-22. The game tonight will be played on Ram hill.

On the Ontario floor the Warriers will entertain Lucas. So far Lucas has lost both its games, while Ontario has won one and lost two.

Union, winner of two games and loser of one, is matched on the Bellville floor with the Blue Jays who have lost all three of the loop games so far.

GASCO MARKSMEN DOWN MANSFIELD RIFLE CLUB

Golfers Told Not to Worry

Plenty of Balls Ready For 1942 Campaign.

By HAROLD CLAASEN

NEW YORK —(AP)— Golfdom, like other war-confused sports, doesn't know exactly what it will or can do in 1942 but it does show exactly what it is not going to do.

* * *

It is not going to determine the national open, amateur, public links and women's championships although by sectional and invitational meets it hopes to surpass the estimated 63,406,000 rounds played in 1941.

Despite the United States Golf association's action in calling off its four major tournaments, the professional's group will decide its 1942 king sometime this summer on a course to be selected.

Joe Dey, executive secretary of the amateur combine, says the championships were not cancelled because of any pressure or lack of equipment. He explained the association's officers felt the title would be hollow glory, with most of the better shotmakers in the service or too busy with defense work.

Alexander H. Findlay of Philadelphia, retailer of golf equipment, is positive there will be no ball shortage in the coming campaign.

"Speaking for the retailers, there is sufficient rubber for golf balls in 1942. We took care of that a year ago. Naturally, ball hogs who dedicate themselves to hoarding every available dozen can make it hard on others."

It was pointed out that the amount of rubber used by the tire industry in a single, normal day would more than supply golfers for an entire season.

Although it called off its own championships, the U. S. G. A. adopted an "all-out" program of assistance in raising funds for war relief and defense.

Over in Ashland they're beginning to believe our Mansfield Tygers are trusting souls only up to a point.

Bill McKee, the Ashland scrivener, opines that Prof. Jim McDowell, the Ashland timekeeper, must not have an honest face, and reports that in Tuesday night's cage scramble between the Tygers and the A's, Mansfield permitted McDowell to keep time all by himself for three quarters until the score was 28-27 in favor of Ashland.

Then, says McKee, the Mansfields rushed a timer over to the bench to keep check on Prof. Jim.

Well, there are times when time is of the essence.

It makes a funny yarn the way Bill tells it, but it may be that Mansfield merely wanted a checker to keep the Tyger bench informed on the passing of the seconds.

"Shucks," says Bill, "we'd have had a checker there at the start of the game"

That's a good idea too. I've seen games decided and small riots started on decisions by timekeepers.

That Snooks Jenkins is still hotter than a pistol for the Fremont Little Giants. He canned 20 points the other evening while the Giants were defeating Tiffin Junior Order by only 31-24 for their seventh straight victory.

Incidentally Dick Behr of the Fremont News-Messenger says I was in error recently when I said Jenkins was largely responsible for Mansfield's double-overtime defeat in the Sandusky tourney last spring, pointing out that Jenkins scored only four points.

If he had scored no points at all I still would not have been in error. Mansfield lost that game when some of the players started engaging in a personal battle with Jenkins, breaking up the teamwork so that nothing new was added to the safe lead with which the Tygers started the final period.

Newark's Wildcats have just taken over undisputed lead of the Central Ohio league through a 37-28 win over Zanesville

Among those in the know, the Central Ohio has long been regarded as one of the toughest cage circuits, year after year, in the state of Ohio.

Mansfield's Tygers need not feel so bad over dropping that early-season decision at Newark.

Mansfield High Seeks Revenge

Scout Says Tygers Should Beat Quakers.

"THOSE Quakers looked plenty tough, but I think we can beat 'em tonight."

That's the report of Scout Harry Mehock regarding tonight's cage battle between the Mansfield Tygers and New Philadelphia at Senior high gym.

Mehock saw the Quakers lose to Dover 39-51 Tuesday night, and in spite of the score was impressed by the work of two big boys, Kirk, center, and Halter, guard, who are used for under-basket duty at both ends of the court.

* * *

Between them, Kirk and Halter rang up 21 of New Philly's 39 points against Dover. They'll have to be slowed down if the Tygers are to win tonight and gain revenge for a double-overtime defeat in the Tuscarawas town last season.

Tonight will be the last appearance of the Tygers before the home crowd until Feb. 7 when they tangle with Mt. Vernon's Yellow Jackets.

Next Friday and Saturday nights they will spend in Youngstown, taking on Chaney and Ursiline, and the following Friday night will find them at Bellevue.

After dropping their first three games, the Tygers have come back for an even break at four victories and four defeats in interscholastic competition, and have added an extra win at the expense of an alumni quintet.

Coach Vern Hoffman may change his starting lineup tonight to include Romano and Winbigler at forwards, Dietzel center, and Shiplet and Krupp guards

* * *

The reserves are scheduled for a preliminary game at 7 o'clock with the main attraction booked for 8:15.

Byron Nelson Battles Jinx

Leads Field In $5,000 Oakland Open Tourney.

OAKLAND, Calif — (AP) — Ten years a contender and never a winner Byron Nelson battled par and a California winter golf tournament jinx today as he teed off leading the field in the second round of the $5,000 72-hole Oakland open championship.

The big boy from Toledo, who has won U. S. open and P. G. A. titles, started the second eighteen with a stroke advantage. He led the opening round with a three-under par 67 for the Sequoyah course.

* * *

In nine other California appearances along the golden trail of golf, Nelson's star flickered at times, but invariably faded. This may be the year he beats the jinx.

The tournament favorite, Ben Hogan, and three others trailed Nelson with 68's. Hogan shared the spot with Mike De Massey of Morro Bay, Bill Nary of Del Mar and Lawson Little San Francisco.

Appleseed Trims Butler Reserves

Johny Appleseed cagers drubbed the Butler reserves 25-17, on the Butler floor Wednesday night.

Leading, 7-6, at the end of the first quarter, Appleseed trailed by one point, 12-11, at the half and forged ahead to a 17-15 advantage at the end of the third quarter.

Les Meyers led the Pioneer scoring with four baskets and one free throw for a total of nine points

Appleseed also won the reserve game 19-13.

WANT GEHRINGER AS COACH FOR TIGERS

DETROIT — (AP) — The Detroit Tigers have retired Charley Gehringer, slick fielding second baseman, by omitting him from their 1942 playing roster, but the door to his return to baseball is more than slightly ajar.

The Detroit management is endeavoring to interest the 38-year-old mechanical man infielder in a coaching job under Manager Del Baker where he conceivably would undergo the usual conditioning process and thus might be available for active duty in an emergency. But thus far the untalkative Gehringer pursuing his business as a manufacturer's agent, has been somewhat more than characteristically silent.

WOOD CALLS HIMSELF "GHOST CHAMPION"

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Golf professional Craig Wood calls himself "the champion holder of ghost championships."

He's got the national open golf championship cinched for the war period for the U. S. G. A. has cancelled the competition until peace returns.

"I won the Oklahoma City and Reddy Tee tournaments in 1929," said Wood. "They were never held again. I won the Galveston open in 1932, the Radium Springs open in 1933, the Lakes open in Australia in 1934, and the New York Metropolitan open in 1940. None was ever held again."

Hedges Holds Cage Lead

Maintains Elementary School Race Advantage.

As Mansfield elementary school cage clubs went into their second round of play yesterday Hedges maintained its clutch on first place by dropping Prospect school, 24-15, Bowman fattened its second place average by beating the fourth place Woodland team, 13-10, the third place Newman team clubbed Brinkerhoff, 25-5, Western tripped West Fifth, 4-0, and Bushnell shaded Carpenter, 13-12.

With the game tied up, 10-all, the Hedges players came to life as the second half opened on the Johnny Appleseed floor and caged six points in the third quarter and eight in the last to win handily. High scorer, however, was Swank of Prospect with nine points.

In building its win over Woodland Bowman went into the lead as the game opened and held its advantage all the way. Ladd, Bowman forward, led the scoring with six points.

Just three men from each side scored in the Newman-Brinkerhoff game, but two of the men on the Newman team scored 11 and 12 points, enough to trounce Brinkerhoff's total of five tallies. High scorers were Poth with 11 points and Pritchard with 12.

Western school worked itself up to fifth place by doing all the scoring to beat West Fifth, 4-0, with 10 Western boys getting into the game.

Carpenter, tied with West Fifth for eighth place, almost staged an upset over Bushnell. However, trailing by two points at the end of the third quarter, they were only able to gain one point in the last stanza, and lost, 13-12.

Little Town That Wasn't There Cops 9 Straight Wins

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Bit of basketball mystery-drama entitled "The Ghost Team of Butler County—or The Little School That Wasn't There!"

Early this week, in a Cincinnati newspaper (Enquirer), there appeared the following item:

"Little Elmsdale high school, located on route 4 near Middletown, is claiming outstanding success in the first year the farm lads have tried basketball. Elmsdale has won nine straight, the latest a 42-25 swamping of Riley.

* * *

"Syd Rachel is Elmdale's star, and quite a cageman he is. In six games Rachel has marked up 140 points. His effort against Riley was a mere high-point job of 23 points. Joe Muhlenkamp, another good shot for Elmsdale, who would possibly star on any other team, is somewhat dwarfed by Rachel."

Now, we've been shuffling scholastic cage and grid teams for several years, and that "Elmsdale" didn't strike a responsive chord in our memory. We had a hunch it wasn't one of Ohio's 953 class B or 201 class A institutions.

So we started sleuthing. Telephone calls about Elmsdale brought these answers:

H. R. Townsend, state high school athletic commissioner: "Never heard of an Elmsdale high school."

State department of education: "There's no such school in Ohio."

Supt. C. H. Williams, Butler county schools: "There's no Elmsdale school in this county. Nearest thing we have is Williamsdale, but it doesn't have a high school. If you find an Elmsdale, please let me know about it, for I'd like to know where it is, too."

* * *

Then we checked up on Riley, latest victim of the elusive Elmsdales. It seems there is a Reily in Butler county, but that team lost to unbeaten Hanover last week, and has never heard of Elmsdale, Rachel of Muhlenkamp.

The only Riley in the state is Riley township of Pandora, 135 miles from Middletown, and class B teams, in their first year of competition, just don't travel that far.

Not only that, but the U. S. Postal Guide shows, in all the 48 states, there is not one Elmsdale postoffice.

Right there we started to suspect, Sherlock Holmes that we are, that someone had tried to "slip one over on the press."

* * *

And this little yarn is just to explain to you folks who might have seen stories here and there from other sources, why this week's Associated Press high school basketball roundup did not include Elmsdale in the "won nine, lost none" list.

Four Quintets Tie for Second

Mansfield Printers Hold Lead By One Game.

Mansfield Printing retained first place in the Commercial "B" league last night at Colony alleys by a one-game margin after dropping a 1-2 decision to Ingram-Martin.

* * *

Four teams are tied for second place, Jones Chris-Craft, Ringside Nite club, Ingram-Martin, and Kent Rummell.

Only two shutouts were recorded in the league, by Hecht & Casey and M. & M. Service Station

Jim Weems again led the league with a 641 total on games of 225-214-202, and Funston turned in a 608 total. Henry Brinkman rolled high game of 251

Rams Meet Butler Club

Get Chance To Take Over Top Loop Spot.

Having last week sloughed Lexington from the top place in the Richland county basketball race, Madison's Rams tonight will get their first official chance at the other team ahead of them, the Butler Bulldogs.

Butler has played one more loop tilt than the Rams and now holds the top rung of the ladder with three wins to Madison's two. However if beaten tonight, the Bulldogs will be reduced probably to third place. Plymouth now tied for second with the Rams should have little trouble with the last place Shiloh club.

In the non-loop tilt between the Rams and Butler, Madison barely shaded the Bulldogs, 24-22. The game tonight will be played on Ram hill.

On the Ontario floor the Warriers will entertain Lucas. So far Lucas has lost both its games, while Ontario has won one and lost two.

Union, winner of two games and loser of one, is matched on the Bellville floor with the Blue Jays who have lost all three of the loop games so far.

GASCO MARKSMEN DOWN MANSFIELD RIFLE CLUB

Golfers Told Not to Worry

Plenty of Balls Ready For 1942 Campaign.

By HAROLD CLAASEN

NEW YORK —(AP)— Golfdom, like other war-confused sports, doesn't know exactly what it will or can do in 1942 but it does show exactly what it is not going to do.

* * *

It is not going to determine the national open, amateur, public links and women's champions although by sectional and invitational meets it hopes to surpass the estimated 63,406,000 rounds played in 1941.

Despite the United States Golf association's action in calling off its four major tournaments, the professional's group will decide its 1942 king sometime this sumber on a course to be selected.

Joe Dey, executive secretary of the amateur combine, says the championships were not cancelled because of any pressure or lack of equipment. He explained the association's officers felt the title would be hollow glory, with most of the better shotmakers in the service or too busy with defense work.

Alexander H. Findlay of Philadelphia, retailer of golf equipment, is positive there will be no ball shortage in the coming campaign.

"Speaking for the retailers, there is sufficient rubber for golf balls in 1942. We took care of that a year ago. Naturally, ball hogs who dedicate themselves to hoarding every available dozen can make it hard on others."

It was pointed out that the amount of rubber used by the tire industry in a single, normal day would more than supply golfers for an entire season.

* * *

Although it called off its own championships, the U. S. G. A. adopted an "all-out" program of assistance in raising funds for war relief and defense.

ARMY WINS

TOLEDO, Ore.—(UP)—Paul Wallace enlisted in the navy the same day he received notice of call into selective service. The navy said to report Dec. 19, the army Dec. 3. The navy refused his enlistment because of the army's draft call. The army said he was deferred because of his navy registration.

Then he received notice again to report Dec. 19 to naval headquarters. Two hours later the army ordered him to report Dec. 3, as the navy had given the army priority.

AS THE ANCIENT AND WISE ONES, THIS AUGUST COURT IS AWARE—THE LAW OF TITANIA IS THAT THOSE ACCUSED, APPEARING FOR JUDGMENT, MUST WEAR MASK AND HOOD UNTIL FREED OR CONVICTED!
ERE THE COURT COULD JUDGE, FAFNER HAS TORN MASK AND HOOD FROM THE FACE AND HEAD OF THIS INNOCENT MAN, MY FRIEND, BRADFORD!
SO—I ASK THAT YE ORDER THE ARREST OF FAFNER—WHO COMMITTED A CRIME IN BOLD CONTEMPT OF THIS COURT!

'DO-NOTHING' LEADERS CLOG STOCK MARKET

Selective Advances Still Show Trend; War News Cheers Traders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Selective rising inclinations continued in today's stock market but many leaders remained in the do-nothing division.

Early improvement was registered for U. S. Steel, American Telephone, North American, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Anaconda and Sears Roebuck.

Boardrooms felt a bit more hopeful over the news from the Far East indicating. Australian reinforcements might stem the Japanese Malayan drive but the picture still was too cloudy to inspire much of a speculative revival. Tax worries persisted as a restraining influence.

Merchandising shares came in for more than usual attention as the survey of Dun Bradstreet estimated the nation's retail dealers. This week enjoyed the biggest dollar volume of sales in history. Feverish demand was attributed to a move by consumers to stock their homes with needed goods in anticipation of climbing prices, taxes and growing shortages.

URGE ARGENTINA CUT AXIS TIES

Other Pan American Nations Put on Pressure at Rio Conference.

the Americas, apparently have not yet won Argentina completely.

Argentina alone stood out, it was reported, as unwilling to join a united front of outright diplomatic hostility to the Axis. It was believed the success or failure of the conference depended on Argentina's attitude.

Ruiz Guinazu vigorously applauded with the others references by United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, leader of the U. S. delegation, to the "Shibboleth of classic neutrality" and "illusory neutrality" in his speech.

Welles indicated he desired the Americas to break outright with the Axis—"Seal off the hemisphere from contagion," as another member of the U. S. delegation put it. Much of Welles' speech was devoted to the dangers of continued operation of Axis diplomats and consuls in the Americas.

Welles urged non-belligerents of the western hemisphere to abandon neutrality and to form a united front by driving out Axis agents now serving as diplomats.

He also urged the severing of economic relations with the Axis by preventing business, financial and trade transactions.

Speakers from Brazil, Uruguay, Chile and Mexico also stressed the need for united action.

Dr. Alberto Guani, the Uruguayan foreign minister, announced his nation was willing to support the declaration backed by Mexico, Venezuela and Colombia,

Officially setting the conference in motion, President Getulio Vargas of Brazil pledged that his country never would be used as a "point of advantage for aggression against sister nations."

He said Brazilians were determined to "defend their own territory inch by inch against any incursions."

An indication that Brazilian authorities feared some agents might try direct action against conference delegates was seen in the heavy guards of secret policemen assigned to protect them. Welles had a half-dozen.

Fire Chief Says His Calls on Mayor For Removal Reasons Without Success.

been made of the fire chief as yet and that "the administration" was allowing Seeburger time to carry out its suggestion.

Although Crafton said yesterday and again today that his act of calling for the resignation was prompted by "the administration," Mayor W. J. Locke has made no statement on the matter.

This morning Seeburger was told "to come back later" because there were other callers waiting to see the mayor. Locke also passed up his daily interview with The News-Journal for the second successive day, saying that he had an appointment with Mose Haynes, political leader in the north end of the city.

Seeburger, who is 63 years old, has been a member of the Mansfield fire department for 31 years, serving the last nine as fire chief. He has been eligible for the firemen's retirement pension for nine years.

The fire chief said yesterday that the request for his resignation came "like a bolt from the blue" and that he had no intention of quitting "just like that."

Seeburger today said that he "was a lot younger than many other men in the fire department and other branches of the city service" and that "he had no intention of retiring at present." He said he would ignore the suggestion until he was given a written request.

Censor Bans All Quiz and Request Radio Programs

Besides all of the restrictions which the press has been asked to observe, the radio regulations call for extraordinary precautions to nullify attempts of foreign agents to use the air waves to send out information.

With this in view, Price asked that, generally speaking, the industry discontinue "any quizz program originating remotely, wherein the group is small, and wherein no arrangement exists for investigating the background of participants." This includes, he said, such programs as man-in-the-street interviews, interviews at airports and train terminals, and quizz programs in which the audience participates.

He asked discontinuance also of fulfillment of any request received by telephone or telegraph, such as requests that certain music be played or advising of lost persons, animals or objects.

The code asks refusal of requests to call mass meetings or make emergency announcements, except when they come from official sources.

Sharp restrictions have been placed on weather broadcasts. The radio may use only such weather data as specifically approved for it by the weather bureau, and broadcasters have been asked to avoid reference to weather conditions in describing current events.

The code asks withholding from the air reports of information from unidentified sources as to ship sinkings or reverses or successes of land forces.

Price advised radio to "steer clear of dramatic programs which attempt to portray the horrors of combat; to avoid sound effects which might be mistaken for air raid alarms."
